HITLER FORECASTS START OF 'ALL OUT' SEA WAR ON BRITAIN

Calls Aid Bill War Declaration

CLARK DENIES BRITAIN FIGHTS 'OUR BATTLE'

Idaho Senator Attacks Powers Bill Gives President, But Sees Its Passage.

SEVENTH DAY OF DEBATE

Opponent Says British Fight For Commercial Gains, Not Security of Nation.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Sen. D. Worth Clark, (D., Idaho), charged today that passage of the British-aid bill would authorize President Roosevelt "to conduct an undeclared war anywhere in the world."

Opening the second week of debate on the bill, Clark said that "within the next week or so" the senate would make a declaration of war, but "we'll call it a 'lend-lease' bill."

His speech was prepared for delivery in the senate this afternoon.

He denied that Great Britain was "fighting our fight," asserting that she "is fighting for precisely the same thing that she has fought for a thousand years: commercial supremacy."

"Democracy — the freedom of small nations—not a power in Europe is fighting for these things," he said. "They are fighting for gold, trade, commerce, and the maintenance in power of their ruling classes.

German Nazism, Italian Fascism, Russian Communism, and British imperialism; there is little to distinguish them. . . . So let us see what we can do toward preserving democracy in America, and let the foreign 'isms' slaughter themselves as they wish."

He conceded that the bill would pass; that his was a "futile fight" because the "current is now too swift" and the "money and money-

Pup Leads Cop On Wild Chase After 'Break' From Train

A six-months-old police pup was safe in a Pittsburgh home today, but only after it had given Mansfield police a hectic chase after it broke away from railroad employes.

Pennsylvania railroad officials are sure that the canine was delivered because they sent along a special custodian after the animal was captured by the officers early Sunday.

The pup, valued at $25, got away when it was being transferred from a Toledo to Pittsburgh train at the freight office.

That was about 5 p. m. Satur-

NEAR LAST WALK

Martins Ferry Slayer Due To Die In Chair Wednesday.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Barring unexpected intervention by Governor Bricker, William John Sevastis, 56, Martins Ferry, will die Wednesday night in the Ohio penitentiary electric chair for the murder of his employer.

Sevastis, a Greek waiter, went berserk last May and killed his employer, Mike Momos, and two other men in a Martins Ferry cafe.

WANT WILLKIE

Three American Groups Urge Him To Visit China.

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—An invitation to Wendell L. Willkie to visit China was sent today by the American Legion, the American Association, and the American Chamber of Commerce.

The invitation said that a visit similar to that of Great Britain might "have the most important effect on immediate Far Eastern developments."

5 Injured In Accidents; 11 Drivers Cited

Watchman Hurt When Hit By Car; Three Injured Near Shelby.

Five persons were injured, none seriously, in four traffic accidents Sunday and early today in the Mansfield area, while traffic mishaps in Ohio claimed at least eight lives over the week-end.

Meanwhile 11 drivers were cited in the Mansfield area for traffic violations, seven of them drawing fines and one losing his driving license for 60 days. Three cases were continued and the defendant in another forfeited his $25 bond by failing to appear for a hearing this morning.

Struck by a car as he walked along route 30 in East Mansfield at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, James Ralston, 62, a Mansfield WPA watchman, suffered head and neck injuries. He was taken to the Hilltop Nursing home for treatment.

Ray Edmond, Mansfield R. D. 4, driver of the car, told deputy sheriffs he saw Ralston too late to avoid the accident. The side of the car struck Ralston, knocking him down. He was not believed seriously hurt.

Thomas J. Turner, 26, James Little, 20, and Clara B. Taylor, 15, all of Willard, received cuts and bruises in an accident early Sunday on route 39 two miles south of Shelby. Four other persons in the car escaped injury.

State patrolmen said a car driven by Turner collided head-on with one operated by Sherman Ferguson, 23, of 492 Louise avenue, Mansfield.

Turner was taken into custody of a charge of reckless driving filed by Ferguson who accused him of driving on the wrong side of the road. Turner was to be taken before Mayor W. R. Morris of Shelby today.

AGREEMENT DUE

Company Official Sees End of Motor Wheel Strike.

LANSING, Mich. — (U.P.)— H. H. Shaw, personnel director of the Motor Wheel corporation, said today mediators had reached an agreement concluding a 12-day strike at the plant, which had halted production on defense orders totalling $1,400,000.

The strike was called Feb. 13 by the United Automobile Workers (AFL) to enforce demands for a union shop. Approximately 3,000 men had been idle and the Packard Motor Car company plant in Detroit, employing 7,500 men, was forced to close Friday because of lack of supplies.

Shaw said that terms of the agreement did not include a union or preferential shop clause.

BURNS KILL GIRL, 4

MARTINS FERRY—(U.P.)—Patricia Czarnecki, 4, died today of burns received last night when kerosene was thrown on a fire in her home at Tiltonville.

POLICE CHECK 2 BURGLARIES

Dairy Store Looted of $60, Office of Lumber Concern Ransacked by Thief.

Police today were investigating two week-end burglaries, one of them the Isaly Dairy store, 60 West Fourth street, which was looted of $60.

The theft was reported at 7:30 a. m. Sunday by Richard Pence, assistant manager, when he opened the establishment and found the money missing.

He told police he had put the bills in a cheese box when he closed the store at midnight Saturday and then had hidden the box.

Officers said entrance to the store was gained by breaking a rear window in the establishment.

Officers were called to the Burkhardt Lumber company on Elm street at 3:30 a. m. Sunday when a passerby observed the office door standing open.

Donald Bowden, office manager, was called and reported nothing missing, although the office had been ransacked, police said. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in the door.

NEW CAR WHEEL

Will Let Trains Run Faster, More Safely, Says Armco.

MIDDLETOWN —(AP)— American Rolling Mill company announced today development of a new railroad passenger car wheel designed for high speed service with an additional margin of safety and durability.

Vice President W. W. Schald said the wheel would be manufactured at Armco's Butler, Pa., wheel works and that the manufacturing license also would be offered other companies.

GIVEN 99 YEARS FOR KILLING BOY

Farmer Shot Athlete Who Married His Daughter, 14.

FORT WORTH, Texas—(U.P.)—Earl T. Brewer, 40, a workworn cotton farmer, appears in court today to receive a 99-year prison sentence for making his 14-year-old daughter a widow four days after her wedding.

A jury deliberated two hours and 19 minutes, yesterday found him guilty of murdering Glen Cox, 19, a high school athlete with whom his daughter, Virginia, eloped last Jan. 6.

Since Texas juries determine a defendant's punishment when they decide the degree of his guilt, Judge Willis McGregor had no choice but to sentence him to 99 years in the penitentiary.

SCORES POLICY

Pegler Says Administration Drives Workers Into Unions.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Westbrook Pegler, newspaper columnist told a house judiciary committee today that the present labor union policy of the government "is to force unwilling workers to join labor unions which may and do abuse them in many ways."

He declared that the government had "refused to take any steps to protect" the "unwilling members" of labor unions.

"Elections (in unions) are crooked and farcical," Pegler continued. "Accounts are juggled and known criminals and other crooks who never have been convicted are maintained in office by manipulation and terrorism."

'MUCH BETTER'

Davey Improving Rapidly at Clinic, Say Officials.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Condition of former Gov. Martin L. Davey was reported as "much improved" today by Cleveland clinic officials where Davey has been recovering from an acute attack of coronary thrombosis.

Clinic attendants said Davey, who was brought here from his home in Kent Feb. 8, must remain at least another week.

President Calls On Congress For Funds For Army.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Roosevelt asked congress today for more than $3,000,000,000 in supplemental appropriations for the army.

Speaker Rayburn who announced the chief executive's request had no further details about the estimates, but said they would be made public later in the day.

KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

FALL FATAL TO MANSFIELD MAN

Herman W. Remy, 81, Dies at Hospital After Falling Down Basement Stairs.

Injured when he fell down the basement stairs at his home, Herman W. Remy, 81, of 418 Hammond avenue, died early Sunday in General hospital.

County Coroner Lewis B. McCollough said death resulted from a fractured skull.

He said Remy had started for the basement about 3:30 a. m. to fire the furnace and apparently lost his balance, falling to the basement floor. He died at 6:30 a. m. He was the last member of a family of eight sons.

Born in Germany in 1859, he came to Mansfield at an early age. He had been employed at the Martin Steel Products company until his retirement about seven years ago.

A former city patrolman, he served on the police force from April 17, 1907 to Jan. 31, 1910. He resigned to enter industry.

An uncle of Detective Lee J. Remy, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Glenn Stoner, Mansfield; two grandchildren, Mrs. John Lombardy, Sandusky, and Remy D. Stoner, Mansfield.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday. Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

SEES CHURCHILL

Jap Ambassador Seeks Details on British Far East Stand.

LONDON (AP)—Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu called on Prime Minister Churchill today and was said to have sought clarification of the British attitude in the Far East, particularly in view of the British mining of approaches to Singapore.

Churchill later conferred with the Turkish ambassador to London. The conference with Churchill took place in the absence of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who is in the Middle East.

THOROUGH JOB

Thieves Loot Jewelry Store, Then Strip Display Cases.

AKRON (U.P.)—Police today were seeking clues to two thieves who were said to have escaped with $2,000 in loot from the Henry B. Ball Jewelry Company.

Someone during the night threw stones through the south show window of the store's front, police said, and took merchandise valued at $1,347. Later the display cases in the bowling arcade were smashed and rings and watches valued at $579 were taken.

BRITISH, TURKS STIFFEN STAND ON 2 FRONTS

London Tells Japs Expansion to South Spells 'Danger' In Pacific Ocean.

TURKEY STANDS BY ALLY

Warns Bulgaria It Will Fight Any and All Aggression Threatening Safety.

(By Associated Press)

Britain and Turkey, her neutral ally, took a stiffer attitude in the twin crises of the Balkans and the Far East today.

Authoritative diplomatic quarters in London said Britain has served notice on Japan that Japanese expansion southward "enhanced dangers" in the Pacific.

Militarily allied to Britain, Turkey declared through her foreign minister Sukru Saracoglu that she would find it impossible "to remain indifferent to foreign activities which might occur in her security zone."

This was an evident reference to Hitler's reported intention to send Nazi troops through Bulgaria or an attack on Greece. Turkey has long regarded Bulgaria as part of her security zone.

"Turkey will oppose with force any and all aggression which might be directed against her territorial integrity or her independence," Saracoglu warned.

Some observers said they believed the statement was prompted by Bulgaria's seeming inclination to interpret her week-old non-aggression accord with Turkey as an indication that Turkey was indifferent to German troop movements across Bulgaria, so long as Turkey's borders were not violated.

German officers already are established in Sofia, Bulgaria's capital, and Bulgarian police halted all automobile traffic yesterday in the Sofia district without explanation as police began a nation-wide hunt for Bulgarians spreading anti-German leaflets.

VOTE TONIGHT

Cleveland Solons Expected To Reopen Sewage Plant.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— The city council was expected tonight to vote funds for resumption of service at the city's three major sewage treatment plants, closed for a week when the council refused to approve a 22-cent surcharge on city water bills.

Mayor Edward Blythin, who ordered the shutdown, said he will meet with the council in an advance session tonight for approval of the surcharge turned down last Monday.

Blythin said the city "will lose no time" to resuming operations at the plants once funds are appropriated. He added it would be "a few weeks" before the plants could be restored to full effectiveness in their sewage treatment.

Sees Furious Attack, With Spring at Hand

'Wherever British Boats Appear, Our Submarines Will be Ready,' Cries Fuehrer in Talk to Old Party Comrades; Brags of Power.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Adolf Hitler said today that "the war at sea" can now begin and that "from April on our enemy can expect other things."

"I am quietly looking forward to the coming decision," the fuehrer told a cheering group of old party comrades in the Munich beer hall where the National Socialist movement was founded 21 years ago today.

He said a report received "just two hours ago" from the supreme naval command had revealed the sinking of another 250,000 tons of British shipping.

"I am prepared to mobilize half of Europe in this conflict," Hitler declared.

"Wherever British boats appear," he said, "our submarines will be ready for them."

"I am grateful," Hitler said, "that once war was unavoidable I could live to carry it on and to do so while I felt still fit.

"Right now with spring coming on I feel particularly fit.

"I rely on the best armed force of the world—the best Germany ever had—numerically strong, well equipped and with good leaders.

"Our armaments preparation is the proudest achievement of all time.

"Maybe there are a few fools here in Germany who think of revolution. Then they predict that winter will beat Germany. We are pretty well winterproof. We have stood thousands of winters.

"No power in the world can damage our indestructible unity."

Hitler's audience burst into wild applause as he told them in an address broadcast by radio throughout Germany and most of Europe that:

"Our battles at sea can begin in reality, only now."

"The outside world has slept," Hitler said, "while Germany has prepared her new campaign.

Italy with whom he declared "insoluble friendship," has kept the British busy in the Mediterranean while Nazi submarines have been built and new crews trained.

LONDON TESTS GAS DEFENSES

Stages 'Attack' in Crowded Section, Sees Failure For Such Hitler Tactics.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—London had its first poison gas test today and authorities concluded that if Adolf Hitler is depending upon such attacks for a successful invasion he is doomed to disappointment.

Hugh street in Pimlico, an ordinarily crowded middle class district behind Victoria Station, was chosen for the test.

It was carried out along the same general lines as the initial gas experiment at Brighton on the south coast a week ago. As in that case, authorities described it as "very successful."

A harmless but extremely distasteful gas was sprayed through the street after hypothetical explosion of a 250-pound gas bomb had sent wardens rushing through the street with the rattles which will tell of a real gas attack when and if it comes.

All residents had been inform-

DOGS HAVE DAY IN HOLLYWOOD

Outstanding Canine Actors Are Given Bronze Fire Hydrants.

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Dogs had their day in Hollywood today.

Bronze fire hydrants were presented canines judged the most outstanding in motion pictures during the past year at the tail-waggers' annual academy award party.

Daisy, owned by Rennie Renfro, became a two-time hydrant winner for his superior performance in "Room Town." Daisy also won in 1939.

Promise, another dog owned by Renfro, won honors for his work in "The Biscuit Later" Pluto, star of Walt Disney's cartoons, also took a prize.

SLAYER HUNTED

Sent to Lima Hospital, Saws Cell Bars, Escapes.

LIMA — (U.P.) — Peace officers were warned today to be on the lookout for Fred M. Fortney, 42, accused of first degree murder, who escaped from his cell in the Lima state hospital for the criminally insane.

Fortney sawed the iron bars of his cell and fled before sunrise yesterday. He was undetected as he went one quarter mile from his cell to the edge of the grounds. Hospital officials explained that guards are not equipped with searchlights.

Fortney had been a patient of the hospital since June, 1927, when a common pleas court jury found him insane on a first degree murder indictment in Cincinnati.

'DOODLE' SUIT

$50,000 Sought For Death of Girl In Train Wreck.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A suit for $50,000 damages was filed against the Pennsylvania railroad in federal court today by administrators of the estate of Miss Lois Perry, 20, of Akron, who was killed in a crash of the railroad's Detroit-Chicago-Cincinnati-Chicago Falls July 31, 1939.

The suit asks $40,000 for the benefit of the kin of Miss Perry and $10,000 for "conscious pain and suffering."

DOCTOR FOUND DEAD

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Coroner H. C. Schuck returned a verdict of suicide today in the death of Dr. Wilbur Tobey, 59, at a cottage near Bellbrook. His body was found in a garage beneath the cottage. He had been dead for two days of carbon monoxide.

Stork Makes Four Trips To Kentucky Home In Four Hours

(By Associated Press)

LEITCHFIELD, Ky. — A modest, white frame farm house two miles west of this small west-central Kentucky county seat, should be very familiar to "Mr. Stork."

He stopped there four times yesterday in four hours, much to the astonishment of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Lasley, their eight other children, their neighbors, the doctor and most everybody else for miles 'round.

A farm house thronged with curious folk, Dr. John C. Tucker decided wasn't the most convenient place for four babies so the quadruplets, Beulah, Mildred and Marie and their brother, John Lasley, were bundled into a specially-equipped ambulance and taken to the Big City hospital in Louisville, 180 miles away.

Dr. Burt Zimmerman and three nurses, who rode in the ambulance, said in Louisville that their 18 pounds of squirming passengers apparently stood the trip well. Earlier, Dr. Tucker had said all but the boy were "very good" and that the dark-haired mother was "doing nicely."

Beulah was first to be born at 8:30 a. m. while Father Lasley and seven children were at church. Another 30 minutes passed before Dr. Tucker appeared.

Mildred arrived at 10:00. Then came John, named for the doctor, at 12:15 p. m. and 15 minutes later Martine, named for the nurse rushed from Leitchfield.

John weighed 5 pounds and ¾ of an ounce. Beulah, named for her sister, weighed 5 pounds and her two sisters 4 pounds each.

American And Nazi Tangle In Sofia Cafe---Nazi Doesn't Win

SOFIA, Bulgaria (U.P.)—U. S. Minister George H. Earle said a washroom argument over a British World war marching song "Tipperary" preceded a champagne bottle fight in a Sofia cafe early yesterday morning in which he suffered an arm injury and a man whom he identified as a German was knocked unconscious.

"The trouble began," he explained later, "when the German accosted me in a washroom and demanded to know why I had spoken the expression 'bully for Tipperary.'

"I told him that was my business and that Bulgaria was a neutral country. He then followed me outside and threw a champagne bottle which just missed my head.

"Of a bottle flung at him by Colonel Earle, former Pennsylvania governor and World war commander of a submarine chaser, said:

"I warded it off and retaliated by injuring his (the thrower's) features.

He said the incident which occurred in a cafe just around the corner from the American legation was "regrettable but I saw no other course."

Later he added: "I still think Tipperary is a swell tune."

State department officials in Washington said they had not received a report of the incident but expressed interest in the news.

Builds In-Law Proof House

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"I've been immensely amused at the in-law confessions which have been running for several weeks in your column. I too had my in-law troubles, but once burned I learned how to avoid the hot stove-lids.

"When we were married, my young husband and I went to share his mother's home. She wasn't a bad sort, but terribly set in her ways. Certain chairs, sacred to the memory of this and that ancestor, one didn't sit on. I was always forgetting. Worse, I was continually offering them to my relatives and friends. She didn't like pets, so I gave my litlte Scottie away, and he grieved himself to death over the separation from me.

"She had the same food on certain days. Sunday, roast beef; Monday, the hash thereof; Tuesday, croquettes; Wednesday, lamb or veal, and so on, winding up Saturday night with baked beans. Before my first baby was born, my husband yielded to my entreaties and we moved into a two-room apartment with kitchen and bath. It seemed like Paradise, having my own home.

"We had various other homes, as our family circle grew. We had six children in all, and always we had visiting in-laws. After my husband's death and the marriage of my children, I decided to build an in-law proof house. Not that I did not love my sons and daughters-in-law almost as well as my own children, but I just wanted my own diggings.

"The in-law proof house is built, and it has become a good-natured joke among my children and friends who thoroughly understand. I have a huge living-room, a dining-room, a breakfast porch, even a billiard room, but absolutely no guest-room. The house of my dreams is in-law proof and guest-proof. I'm absolutely friendly with the entire clan, have them to meals, take them driving in my car when friends and relatives are in town, give my grandchildren parties, but absolutely no one stays under my roof but myself, my maid and another little Scottie. Yours for an in-law solution.

"FRIENDLY MOTHER-IN-LAW."

Solves School Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

"Dear Dr. Myers:—Two years ago I wrote and asked your advice about my youngest son. The teacher slapped him and made him very nervous, if you remember. I followed your advice and went up to the teacher to talk over the problem of Bobby, for he couldn't eat and was growing very thin. He cried almost always. She said she was sorry for having hit Bobby and even admitted she had no reason for doing so except that she was nervous that day.

"As long as Bobby was in her room he was very nervous. It seemed we were not making any headway, so I talked to the principal of the school about the matter. She had Bobby with a few others moved to another room. Like magic he began to feel better and now he is all right again. That was two years ago.

"I have found many valuable helps from your column. You wrote an article about the child helping with work at home. My children have worked ever since they were very small, first putting things such as knives, spoons and forks each in their place in the drawer, until now they mow the lawn and help me with many chores on the place. We have six and a half acres of land, so you see the help is valuable to me. My oldest boy is nine and I can trust almost any job on the place to him. He thinks it great fun to learn all about the orchard and garden and he even helps me to do canning. I can all the vegetables we eat, also our meat, about 1000 quarts a year."

Deep Understanding

This mother seems to have a deep understanding of her children and ability to win their cooperation. They are gaining in moral character as they are learning to help about their home. What the work does to them is of far greater value than it is in reducing the mother's load, though that is an item also.

That was a wise principal who transferred the child to another teacher. Some principals, unfortunately, hesitate ever to make such a transfer, lest it might reflect upon the teacher. In many other cases a transfer is wise when the teacher really is not to blame, nor the child. Some children and teachers just clash and should not continue to work together.

But I would warn my readers not to be hasty in asking for the transfer of a child who dislikes his teacher. If the child has been pampered and given his way, such transfer might only make him worse. One thing is pretty certain, if after the child has been transferred, he still fails to get along happily, the problem is not with the teacher. Then let me urge the parent who goes to see the teacher, to go with poise and self-control, exercising all the traits of a cultivated and refined person. Moreover, let me add that the parent who goes frequently to school to talk to the teacher about her child can become a pest to the school and do her child far more harm than good. Every teacher knows this sort of nuisance-parent.

Parents and teachers who desire a selected list of books on understanding the child and guiding him intelligently may have such a list without cost by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"You'd better be good," Dicky told Carolyn grimly. Then he turned to me, and drew down an eyelid which she could not see in a gargantuan wink.

"How about it?" he asked. "Are you ready to go?"

"Almost," I answered. Then I turned to Carolyn.

"You are sure you understand now in what you are to corroborate me. Marion only stayed the night at her mother's; I did not see her at Weirhampton; we asked you to come to your home with us, and I am simply an emissary from Marion's mother."

"Yes, I understand," she said, dully. "But it won't be necessary for me to talk much, will it?"

"It would be much better if you didn't talk at all," Dicky said bluntly. "Then we'll be sure you won't be putting the well-known foot in its time-honored parking place. Just answer any questions put to you about Marion as tactfully as you can, without spilling the beans about her disappearance. Leave the rest to us, except—"

He turned to me with a swift crisp question.

"What do you think about our taking Carolyn back to Weirhampton tomorrow? Can you manage it?"

Before I could answer, Carolyn broke in with a terrified exclamation.

"Oh! I thought you were going to let my people take me back."

"Not after those last performances of yours, baby," Dicky answered. "They were altogether too realistic for my taste. Your father and mother are nice people, but they're not equipped to deal with you. We are, and—I'd advise you to show proper enthusiasm when we propose the plan—that is, if Aunt Madge agrees to it."

The deference was camouflage, for he was certain of my response. But I guessed that his exaggerated deference to me, together with his championship of me, were part of his deflation of Carolyn's ego, which had been inflated by the belief that she had "vamped" not only the young police officer, but Dicky, himself.

"I don't know how much of an actress I can be," Carolyn returned resentfully, "but I'll go through the motions."

"You'll do more than that," Dicky told her sternly. "You'll do a piece of acting that will make Mary Veritzen look to her laurels. You'll convince your people that the one thing in the world you yearn most for is to go back to Weirhampton in our care, and Allah help you if you fumble the job. You'll be out in a snowdrift so fast you won't have time to grab your earmuffs. Do you get me?"

"I'll do anything you say," she cried hysterically, "only leave me alone!"

Dicky scanned her face in much the same manner, I told myself, as a collector might look at an impaled butterfly of a species unfamiliar to him. Finally he gave an acquiescent nod.

"You flatter yourself," he said icily. "We are only too happy to leave you alone as long as your—activities do not make it necessary for us to interfere with you. All I'm asking is that you mind your step while you're home."

"All right!" Carolyn agreed, showing a flash of her former spirit for the first time, "but may I ask one question?"

"A dozen if you like," Dicky told her carelessly.

"You're really taking me back to Weirhampton, to the college?"

"Having pipe dreams again?" he gibed. "But I'll relieve your mind. Yes, we're taking you back to the college simply because you're not worth parking anywhere else. And for all of us you can get in touch with your gangster boy-friend as soon as you get there.

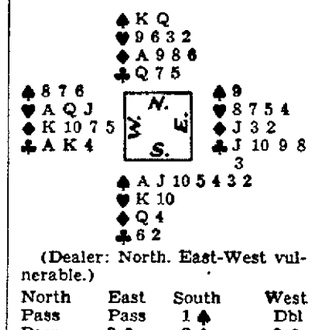
"The Authority on Authorities"

YOUR CARDS DWINDLE

EVEN IF the declarer already knows from your bidding that you hold all the real strength of your side, and a double therefore would not give him any additional guidance in playing the hand, you should still be wary if you realize your partner probably will never be in the lead. Having to play away from your own honors can make them dwindle into spot cards in effect, and in addition the declarer may build a squeeze against you, counting you as having to protect all suits.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Dbl
Pass	2 ♣	2 ♠	3 ♣
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Dbl

Off-hand, West's double might seem like a thoroughly sound one, unless you stop to figure out how he will have to play his cards. Being obliged to lead from them, not only at the start, but later, he might have reckoned he was likely to throw away about two tricks in one way or another, no matter what he did. That is the way it developed.

A cursory glance at the cards make it appear as if the declarer will lose five tricks — two in hearts, one in diamonds and two in clubs—and therefore be down two. But he made his contract.

West led the club K. Seeing the guarded Q in dummy, he switched to a trump, the 8. South thereupon took three trump rounds, winding up in his own hand, and led the club 6. West won with the A and, hating to open a red suit—either of which would cost him a trick, he led his club 4. Declarer won that with dummy's Q, discarding the heart 10, and then threw West in with the heart 2 to the K and A.

This time West had a lead to make, his heart Q, but South ruffed it and ran his spades. As the last was played, he also held two diamonds in each hand, plus the heart 9 in dummy. West didn't like to pitch the heart J and set up that 9, so he discarded the guard to his diamond K. Thereupon declarer tossed the heart off in dummy and took the diamond A and Q for the last two tricks. West was squeezed, and there was nothing he could do to beat the contract.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, February 25.

A day of much activity and initiative is the augury based on the lunar and mutual aspects. It is a time to be up and doing, with enthusiasm and well planned attack, especially in putting over of new propositions of creative work, where enterprise and practical preparation are vigorously prosecuted. The forces and facilities are under splendid impetus, but should be handled with the proper measure of power, and not too aggressively or strenuously.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of unusual activity, with the energies bent in the direction of launching new and important objectives, with group, public and community welfare as the instigating force. Many phases of constructive effort will be under high stimuli for decisive and effective action. Practical labor and executive ability should be highly productive and progressive, but do not get carried away by over enthusiasm or aggressiveness.

A child born on this day will be extremely talented and practical in a variety of constructive lines. It will be ingenious, forceful, resourceful.

Cream Puff Shells Have Many Uses

By BETSY NEWMAN

IF YOU never have made cream puff shells, learn to do it now. It isn't hard and you may use them in many ways—filled with creamed fish or meat, as in this recipe; filled with ice cream with chocolate or butterscotch sauce; or filled with whipped cream or a cream filling.

Today's Menu.

Tomato Juice Cocktail Canapes
Cream Puff Shells Filled with Chicken a la King
Green Peas
Spiced Peaches or Pears
Olives Pickles
Chocolate Sponge Cake Coffee

Cream Puff Shells.

½ cup water
¼ cup butter
2 eggs
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup sifted flour

Put water, butter and salt in heavy saucepan and heat; when boiling briskly, add flour all at once, stirring energetically, and cook until mixture forms a smooth ball which leaves the sides of the pan. Stir constantly. Turn into mixing bowl and beat eggs in thoroughly one at a time; then continue beating until mixture is thick and shiny and breaks off when spoon is raised. Drop on greased baking sheet, 6 to 8 equal portions. Bake puff shells in very hot oven (450° F.) for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 20 minutes longer. Cut thin slice from top of each and fill with a la king mixture.

Apple stuffing perks up baked spareribs. Make up about 3 cups of your pet stuffing and add a cup of chopped raw apple.

FLIGHT ERRORS SMOOTHED OUT BY NEW PLANE

Low-Speed Craft Piloted By Novices Like Driving Automobile.

BURBANK, Cal.—(U.P.)—Flying a huge airliner or a fast military ship may be a job for a trained pilot, but at Union Air Terminal here is an airplane that anyone can fly—actually take off, fly and land without previous experience.

This ship is a Stearman-Hammond low-wing pusher-type monoplane with a top speed of 130 miles an hour. It accommodates two passengers and can fly 600 miles without refueling.

The trim little cream and red monoplane's home field is the busy Union terminal from which it is flown all over San Fernando valley by various people who are not pilots. Its owner is James B. Webster, a veteran of 23 years of flying.

For more than two uneventful years Webster has had his ship in service. Approximately 5,400 persons—all non-fliers — have been shown that if they can drive an automobile they can fly his airplane.

With the novice goes an experienced pilot who tells him what to do and when to do it. The pilot also handles the throttle and radio communications with the control tower at the airport to receive signals for takeoffs and landings.

The ship has no rudder bar as in other airplanes. The operator simply turns the steering wheel as he would in driving an automobile. Aileron controls then function to "bank" the ship and produce enough "drag" on the depressed wing to get the ship "around the corner."

The steering wheel is pushed forward to descend and pulled back to take off. It also controls the forward wheel of a tricycle landing gear for taxiing. And that's all there is to it.

The plane is more foolproof than an automobile. Unless deliberately nose-dived into the ground, it is almost impossible to crash it. In the air it will right itself from any abnormal position.

On the ground and in landing it won't bounce because of special shock absorbers and it can't nose over because of the three-wheeled landing gear.

Despite its ease of operation, Webster was none too enthusiastic about the future of "flivver type" planes. "They still can't go the places an automobile can," he said. "Can you imagine anyone jumping in an airplane to go to the market for a bottle of milk?" he asked.

Plane's Appeal Limited.

Questioned about the potential market for private airplane owners that would be created when thousands of army-trained pilots were released from the service, Webster asked: "How many of those pilots, trained to handle high-speed military ships, would be satisfied to fool around with little 'putt-putts' like this that have a top speed of only about 130 miles an hour?

"The type ships they will want are the medium powered, four or five place planes that will go at least 175 miles an hour, and such ships now cost around $15,000 and up.

"It is the airlines that will profit most. Many people I know who own their own ships use them for short hops around Southern California. Sometimes they even fly them as far as San Francisco But when they really want to go somewhere — say a business trip to Chicago—they take an airliner.

"I believe," Webster concluded, "that to evaluate the future of the small plane, you should compare them with boats. The yachtsman uses his small sail or motor boat for short fishing or pleasure trips, but when he goes to Europe or Asia or Honolulu he takes an ocean liner."

Meanwhile, Webster continues to prove to people that flying an airplane is easy, safe and pleasant.

New Approach Urged to Help Pupil's Vision

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—(AP)—Educators and psychologists must cooperate with doctors and specialists if the lagging health program in American schools is ever to catch up with the educational program.

That's the belief of Dr. James A. Bettis, director of the reading clinic at Pennsylvania State College, who urged cooperation as the "key to success" in solving the reading difficulties of students.

"Teachers are not trained to examine a child's eyes, and oculists do not know a pupil's school difficulties," he said. "Cooperation, therefore, is the key to success."

He declared [illegible] teachers should be able to interpret the relatively simple tests of vision developed to date. These tests, he pointed out, are sufficiently reliable for survey purposes and the teacher can then recommend cases for further examination and interpretation by the eye specialist.

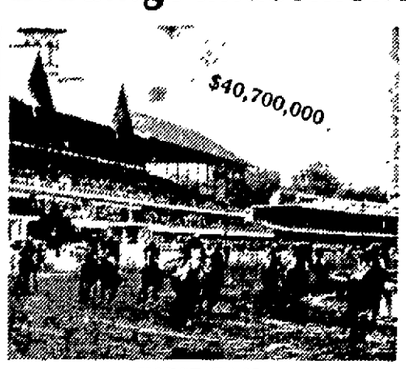
America Spends Nearly Billion Yearly On Leading Amusements

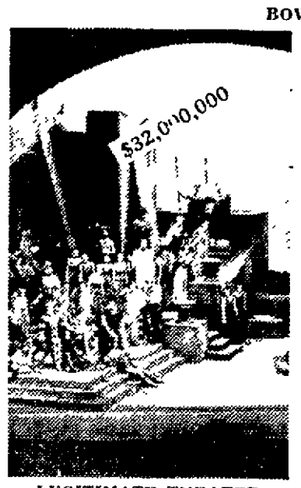
MOVIE THEATERS

BOWLING



HORSE RACING

POOL ROOMS



LEGITIMATE THEATER

BASEBALL

DANCE HALLS

Americans are pouring nearly a billion dollars a year into the tills of the seven leading amusement industries in the United States, according to figures released by the census bureau. Motion picture theaters are far in front in receipts with 15,115 movie and vaudeville houses taking in approximately $675,000,000 last year.

Baseball, the national pastime, is far down the list in sixth place, taking in $25,000,000, $7,000,000 less than the legitimate theater and opera. The bureau has no record of the money spent for such amusements as golf, college sports or night clubbing—or in the gambling casinos.

INDIAN, 72, SAYS HE STILL CAN FOLLOW FOOTPRINT TRAIL

(By United Press)

OROVILLE, Calif.—Despite his 72 years Dixie Johnson, a full-blooded Concow Indian, believes he still retains the tracking instinct that once enabled him to capture criminals in the Sierra Nevada wilds.

Johnson developed his gift as a boy playing the Indian game of hide and seek in his native Feather river canyon country of California. Sometimes his friends would climb trees to break the trail, but Johnson always found them.

In later years he made a business of his ability. Several times authorities called him in to track down criminals and to help find people who had wandered off in the wilds.

Johnson says that a man's footprints tell him many things. He can look at a print in the woods and gather a pretty good idea of where his quarry was going and why.

The tracker said that every walker had a certain characteristic. Some walk with their toes straight ahead, others with their feet out slightly. Because of their walking habits, some people's shoes wear in one place, some in another.

This knowledge of footprints enabled the Concow to trap two bandits in 1915 after they had robbed a logging camp headquarters of $2,800. Authorities spent two or three days vainly hunting for the robbers before they called in Johnson.

The Indian almost immediately found a footprint leading from the main road to a clump of brush on a nearby hill. That single track led to the robbers' undoing. For Johnson trailed them over mountains, logging chutes and up creeks until they were captured.

Recalling the incident, Johnson said: "I think I could still track as well as ever."

Your Federal Income Tax

24.

Deduction for Depreciation.

The internal revenue code provides for "a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence. For convenience, such allowance usually is referred to as depreciation.

In claiming a deduction for depreciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction must be confined to property actually used in a trade, business, or profession, and to improvements on real property, other than property used by the taxpayer as his personal residence. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which cannot be deducted as a business expense.

A lawyer, doctor, or other professional man may not charge off as a current expense the cost of a library used wholly in his profession, this being a capital expenditure and the library a capital asset; but he may deduct an allowance for depreciation based upon the useful life of the library. If part of a professional man's residence is used by him for office purposes, a proportionate amount of the depreciation sustained may be deducted, based generally on the ratio of the number of rooms used for such purposes to the total number of rooms in the building. The same principle applies if a taxpayer rents to others a portion of his residence. Under such conditions, however, the taxpayer must include in his gross income rentals received.

OUT OF GEAR

Car Won't Move—Reason: Thieves Stole Transmission.

BALTIMORE—(AP)—J. C. Bateman returned to his automobile, left overnight on a vacant lot, and started the motor. He shifted into low—but nothing happened. He tried reverse. Still no response. Same with intermediate and high.

Then Bateman investigated. He found thieves had made off with the transmission.

Lord Beaverbrook has more telephones than any other individual in England. Many are scattered around the yards of his two homes.

Former Czarist Officer Slain In New York

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

Broadway looks different these nights. The cafes are full of uniforms; the shooting galleries in the fifties are crowded with men in khaki playing the pin-ball machines; there are soldiers in all the bars; 42nd street, between Broadway and Eighth, looks like the main thoroughfare at Camp Dix.

Kilgallen.

On Park avenue, it's become fashionable to give noisy cocktail parties for departing draftees—sort of "Kiss the Boys Good-bye" soirees. I haven't learned to like it yet.

For me, the boys in brown are cheerless shadows of Things to Come—things far removed from the bright lights and the games and the good food and the rhumba bands and the laughter.

February always seems like the longest month of the year to me. I guess because it's the coldest.

I wonder if the stagehands at Madison Square Garden ever get mixed up in their dates and lay out an ice rink on a basketball night, or a running track on a wrestling evening? Be funny if they did sometime.

Some entertainers can make me laugh without using a script. The Hartmans, with their puzzled look; Jimmy Savo's sly, guilty grin; Victor Moore when he just walks out on a stage.

I got more than a few chuckles out of George Jean Nathan's new book, "The Bachelor Life." I always have a feeling George doesn't mean a word he says, but he says it so entertainingly.

It's about time, it seems to me, for some glamor girl to announce that she really likes nothing better than smoking a good big, black cigar. It's been two years since I saw a belle puffing at a stogie in a nitery.

I don't think opera singers are as colorful as they used to be, according to those autobiographies divas were wont to whip out. Instead of stabbing tenors, getting into scandals with baritones, driving European royalty to suicide and dancing on tables in the plush cafes, prima donnas like Grace Moore and Lily Pons and Kirsten Flagstad now have homes in the country, husbands with bald spots, dogs, children and knitting bags. Probably much better for the high notes, too.

I can't see any fun in fox-hunting—except, maybe, the kind of fox-hunting gals do in the Fifth avenue shops, for silver or platina. . . . The first poem I ever memorized was "Mary Had a Little Lamb." . . . My idea of a daffy-night club attraction would be Dwight Fiske at the Russian Kretchma.

One of my favorite Broadway characters is Murray Korman, the diminutive Lothario of the lens. He spends his days photographing beautiful chorines and torch singers and showgirls attired in wisps of tulle, strings of beads, or a picture hat—and he spends his evenings surrounded by the same kind of beauty, only more warmly wrapped Never saw him without a pretty girl on his wing—and sometimes there are two or three.

I wish someone would devise new dialog for the fight announcers who give out with the "in this corner we have" spiels. There must be a more amusing way of putting it. . . . Among the mimics, I like Dean Murphy.

I wonder if producers plant those hysterical ladies who always scream at the tense moments in mystery dramas? They always emit their terrorized gurglings from the balcony—from the rear of the balcony I never heard anyone in the orchestra shriek.

Oh, how I hate juggling acts, and acts where the lady performer climbs on their gentleman performer's head! . . . I wish the newsreels would show more Spring hats and fewer bombers. . . . Most hotel lobbies are very depressing.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—B. G. (Buddy) De Sylva now has William LeBaron's old job at Paramount—managing director of production—but you can find a bet among those who spend time worrying about such things that he won't be staying there forever.

ROBBIN COONS

DeSylva doesn't do things the customary Hollywood way. He has even walked out on success—after "Bachelor Mother," for instance. He finished producing it with every assurance of a hit, then packed for New York.

"Usually people wait till they get into trouble, then go away some place," he says. "I like to go after a good one."

What he has done in New York is theater history now—he has three hits running concurrently: "DuBarry Was a Lady," "Panama Hattie," "Louisiana Purchase." He came back to produce the Bob Hope picture, "Caught in the Draft," and another for Bing Crosby and Mary Martin, "Birth of the Blues.' That's to be the story of a band-leader down in New Orleans, about 1905, the first to play blues music.

DeSylva celebrated his 45th birthday with a little business deal—sold "Panama Hattie" to M-G-M for $150,000 as an Ann Sothern-Shirley Temple vehicle. That's what Ernest Hemingway makes from the movie rights on "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

Quipped Buddy: "I'm sorry I didn't get to meet Hemingway—I wanted to tell him I'm as good a writer as he is."

Some weeks after New York, Hollywood officially "opened" the new Disney "Fantasia" For the most part, the audience was wowed. You could tell it was something worth talking about—at intermission the lobby buzzed with talk about nothing but the picture. Usually a first-night audience buzzes with talk about nothing.

To us, the most typically Disney touch was not in the musical presentations but in the post-intermission "jam session" by the classical musicians — a typical Disney touch because it is impromptu fun, just like a great deal of the tomfoolery that goes on, sanctioned by the boss, on the Disney lot.

TRUCK BOMBED

Akron Milk Company Target For Dynamite Blast.

AKRON—(UP)—A truck belonging to the Lawson Milk company was damaged by a bomb early today while the vehicle was parked in the yard of the milk company plant. J. J. Lawson, company president, said the blast was believed caused by a stick of dynamite placed under the truck.

The Lawson Milk company, an independent operator, has encountered opposition to its retailing methods.

HUNT FOR LOST PLANE CARRYING NOTED SCIENTIST

Searchers Hunt Canadian Who Discovered Insulin; Lost Since Last Friday.

(By Associated Press)

MONTREAL — An intensive search was underway today for a military airplane missing since Friday morning with Dr. Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin and one of Canada's outstanding scientists, aboard as a passenger.

Besides Sir Frederick, a major in the Canadian army, the plane carried a crew of three: Capt. Joseph Creighton Mackey, 31, formerly a test pilot with the civil aeronautics administration in Kansas City; Navigator William Bird of Kidderminster, England; and William Snailham of Bedford, N. S.

An official announcement issued here last night described the missing aircraft only as "a military airplane being delivered by a civilian organization.

It gave no indication of where it had taken off nor its intended destination but indicated it may have come down somewhere in the sea along the eastern coast of Canada or in some remote section of the maritime provinces of Newfoundland.

The plane had favorable weather conditions when last heard from, the announcement said, but it did not reach its destination nor had its radio been heard since Friday morning.

Sir Frederick had devoted much of his time in the last two years to research in the field of aviation medicine. He was born in 1891 in Alliston, Ont

PILOT FORMER OHIOAN

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— Capt. Joseph C. Mackey, missing in a plane with Dr. Sir Frederick Banting, operated an airport at Findlay, O., four or five years ago. S. L. Willits, CAA superintendent of safety here, reported.

Mackey left here last September for Canada to ferry new bombers to England.

A. L. Alcorn of the CAA staff here said he received word from Mackey in December that he already had completed three flights to England.

SEVEN DROWNED IN CAR PLUNGE

Machine Carrying Young People Falls Into River After Leaving Highway.

(By International News Service)

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis.—An inquest was scheduled today into the deaths of seven young persons who were drowned yesterday when their automobile plunged into the Mississippi river near Prairie Du Chien after missing a bridge.

The victims were three girls and four boys, all Iowans. They were Helen O'Brien, 15, Vera Cannoe, 17, and Marguerite McMellan, 17, all of Rossville, Ia., and Laverne Dakkum, 19, Helmar Dakkum, 18, Vernon Swanson, 20, and Norval Roe, 20, all of near Elen, Ia.

William Bittner, toll gatekeeper, said the party purchased a toll ticket but instead of continuing onto the bridge turned off on a small road which runs to within 50 feet of the river before turning.

The car plunged straight ahead into the water, Bittner said. The accident occurred at 2 a. m.

FIVE KILLED IN GEORGIA

ATLANTA—(INS)—Rail and traffic authorities today investigated an accident in which five members of one family were killed late yesterday when the light truck in which they were riding was struck by an Atlantic coast line passenger train in suburban Pinellas park.

The dead were Kenneth R. McConnell, 32; his wife, Dorothy, 24; a stepson, Louis Frederick Newcomb, 6; a daughter, Olive Jeannette, 2, and a son, Kenneth, five months.

SWINDLER GETS 20 TO 40 YEARS

Easterner Had Admitted Obtaining $2,500,000 From Victims.

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)—Robert J. Boltz, 54-year-old investment counselor, today was sentenced from 20 to 40 years in prison under state indictments charging him with swindling wealthy Philadelphia clients out of $2,500,000.

Judge Eugene V. Alesandroni sentenced Boltz to from two and a half to five years terms on eight of the 186 bills of indictment to which he pleaded guilty. The sentences are to run consecutively.

Boltz still faces a 21-count federal indictment.

DENY CHARGES SCHOOL TEXTS CRITICIZE AMERICAN SYSTEM

(By United Press)

ATLANTIC CITY—(U.P.)—School text book publishers denied today that their books were unduly critical of American social and economic system, as charged by Prof. Ralph W. Robey of Columbia university, who made a survey of textbooks for the National Association of Manufacturers.

E. L. Bowsher, Toledo, O., school superintendent, former Ohio director of education, and chairman of a conference of the School Book Publishers National association, said in a statement issued in behalf of the conference:

"It is the concensus of this group that the charges made by those representing the National Association of Manufacturers cannot be substantiated by truth, that we believe there are few if any of the texts used in the schools deliberately or otherwise written to break down the American plan of life."

Bowsher, addressing the conference, said the real issue was that "certain groups" were interested in cutting the costs of the schools.

The publishers conference was held in conjunction with the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators.

H. M. Corning, superintendent of schools of Omaha, Neb., said that he had no objection to any one investigating school books and that although the NAM's survey had been set up on a high plane "something had slipped."

Bowsher is a former superintendent of Ashland schools and was also at one time Ohio director of education.

WIDOW, 82, DIES

Mrs. Caroline Motter Was Once Honored By Red Cross

Mrs. Caroline Motter, 82, who received a Red Cross certificate of honor for knitting articles for soldiers during the World war, died at her home, 564 West Fourth street, Sunday morning after a brief illness. She was the widow of Jacob Motter.

A life-long resident of Mansfield, she was born here Aug. 2, 1858, the daughter of Jacob and Katherine Krabill, pioneer residents of Richland county.

Mrs. Motter was a member of the First Lutheran church for 55 years.

She is survived by a son, C. J. Motter at home; a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Stewart of Columbus; a brother, Henry Krabill of Mansfield; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Wolf and Mrs. Elizabeth Guenther, both of Mansfield; three grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

JOHN D. BERGER DIES AT AGE 82

John D. Berger, 82, died at his home in the Davy apartments, 270 North Main street, at 5:15 a. m. Sunday after a brief illness.

He was born in Mt. Eaton, O., June 18, 1858 and had resided in Mansfield for the past 15 years. His wife preceded him in death in 1900.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Charles Lowry of Springfield.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. I. K. Umbarger officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Laff-a-Day

"I'm gettin' a break in the army. Back home the neighbor's radio wakes me an hour earlier!"

Up and Down THE STREET

Police Chief Meade K. Bates was doing a little practicing with the "bones" today. A board, box and ten dice were confiscated Saturday night by Lieut. Paul Whipp and Patrolman Herbert Palmer in a downtown night club. No charges were filed against the manager of the establishment or the girl operator, but both were ordered into the chief's office today. Bates says he wants to "find out more about it." State liquor regulations prohibit gambling devices in a place where liquor is sold.

An intricate buzzer system connecting the county jail with the sheriff's office and Judge C. H. Huston's quarters was in operation today. With the use of a code system, the three departments can relay messages to each other, saving telephone calls and trips on foot from the jail to the courthouse or between offices in the courthouse. County commissioners authorized the installation at a cost of $76.

Substituting for seasoned drill masters the other day in a training session at Camp Shelby, Miss., a Mansfield youth and one from Crestline barked orders so well that Captain Martin W. Sullivan figured he may have uncovered some good officer prospects. The beginners who got the try-out included Harold J. Fox, Mansfield, and Harold J. Kreps, Crestline. The two youths are members of headquarters company of the 112th Quartermaster regiment.

The good intentions of Pete Cunningham, bus driver, backfired yesterday. He was not pleased with the way the heater on his bus was functioning in the freezing weather. For his own comfort and that of passengers on the bus he resolved to clean out the heater. He took a compressed air blower and went to work. And then came the surprise. Instead of blowing the way he had intended, the inside of the bus became somewhat of a sample of a London fog. Cunningham went back to work cleaning the inside of the bus which was covered with dust.

ILL FOR YEARS

William Nail, Retired Shelby Postal Clerk, Succumbs.

SHELBY—An illness of several years ended Sunday in the death of William Nail, 59, of 12 Oak street, Shelby. Mr. Nail had lived in Shelby for the past 43 years. He was born in Mansfield, Aug. 8, 1881.

A retired postal clerk, Mr. Nail had worked in the Shelby postoffice for 32 years before retiring from service. He was a member of the First Lutheran church, the fraternal order of Eagles, and the Masonic lodge.

He is survived by his widow, Marie, one son, Charles Nail of Forest Hill, N. Y.; and one daughter, Dorothy, of Cleveland.

Funeral services will be held at the home, Wednesday at 3 p. m. Rev. D. Bruce Young, pastor of the First Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

TAX RECEIPTS SHOWING GAIN

Sales Revenue For County Up $1,700 For Week.

Showing a gain almost weekly, Richland county sales tax receipts so far this year are only $2,200 below last year's figures for the same period, despite a bad start last month.

Collections for the week ending Feb 8 amounted to $11,736,a gain of $1,700 over the corresponding week of 1940.

Receipts since the first of the year total $55,437 as compared to $57,659 for the same period in 1940, State Treasurer Don Ebright reported.

OHIO LOSES OUT

Won't Get U. S. Judgeship Because Democrats Don't Agree.

WASHINGTON (AP) There is little chance, say those who should know, that an Ohioan will be named to the sixth circuit court of appeals bench Failure of Buckeye Democrats to agree on a choice was given as the reason.

Attorney General Jackson has not yet recommended to President Roosevelt a successor to the late Herschel Arant of Columbus, but informed persons thought it might be Supreme Court Judge Thomas McAllister of Michigan.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH BY CONVENT WALL

Death of Military Inventor Is Studied By Federal War Department in Capital.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Michael Borislavsky, 55, former colonel in the czarist Russian army and inventor of military devices reported to be under study by war department officials, was found dead on a sidewalk early today, shot through the eye.

He lay face down beside the wall surrounding the Convent of the Sacred Heart. His spectacles lay nearby. At first it was believed he had fallen after a heart attack, and his breaking spectacles had cut his eye.

Not until a medical examiner made an investigation at the morgue, was it discovered that he had a bullet hole in the back of the head. Then it became evident that he had been shot while wearing the spectacles.

The right lens was smashed and fragments of glass were found in the bullet pierced eye. The bullet had emerged through the back of the head. No gun or bullet was found at the scene.

The case recalled the fatal shooting in a Washington hotel Feb. 10 of Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky, former chief of the Soviet military intelligence for western Europe and author of a series of magazine articles purporting to expose Soviet espionage.

Borislavsky's wife, a hospital employe, said he had left home for a stroll and that she had given him 35 cents. Eleven cents was found on his body.

Col. Peter Zouboff, a friend of Borislavsky and treasurer of the Russian cathedral had visited the Borislavsky home last night. He said Borislavsky was a graduate of the Russian military academy and had been a colonel in the engineering corps of the imperial army.

He said Borislavsky had been working on a device for eliminating smoke and that he had invented a bomb, the patent on which he had submitted to the war department. Army officials had replied favorably but had not accepted the invention, Zouboff said.

COMPLETE 7-DAY PATROL ON SKIS

U. S. Soldiers Finish Hazardous Crossing of Mountain Range.

FORT LEWIS, Wash.—(AP)—Fifteen officers and men of the third division's ski patrol have completed a seven-day training trip over the southern crest of the Cascade range—a hazardous route seldom attempted even by the most expert skiers.

The men carried full battle equipment—40-pound packs, rifles and sidearms—over the snow covered slopes from Snoqualmie pass to Naches pass.

They made bivouacs in the snow, cooked and ate their meals there and spent the night protected only by sleeping bags. They said the bags were ample in temperatures as cold as 50 degrees below zero.

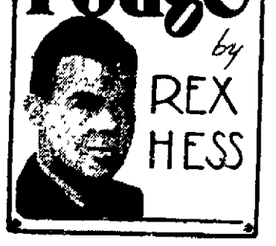
SPORTS NEWS-JOURNAL

Sport Podge

by REX HESS



Now it can be told, I think. Added to all the records big Dave Grubb, Butler basketball center, has made this past season is the fact that he's the first county, or any other kind of cager to get his picture in the paper in underwear shorts.

Hey, what's that? Yep, that's right, mister and madam, that picture you saw in yesterday's News-Journal was big Dave in underwear. But it couldn't have looked more like basketball trunks if it had been basketball trunks, so now it can be told. The time for embarrassment is past.

When Dave came to the N-J office one day last week to have his picture taken, he discovered he had brought a much smaller teammate's trunks.

So much smaller was his Butler buddy, Dave had to take a safety razor and laboriously cut out a flock of stitches that had been taken in the suit to make it even smaller.

And then the trunks didn't fit by half when he got 'em on.

They came about 15 inches from meeting in front, so Photographer Harold Valentine talked him back into his shorts, and shot the picture. Engraver Burl Bachmann painted the photographed shorts and if Dave plays bucketball a million years he'll never have a neater looking uniform than that one you saw yesterday in the paper.

When the Royal Crown women's bowling team got back from the state tournament yesterday afternoon they freely admitted to one and all that the trip had been far from an artistic success from a kegling point of view. But otherwise!

"We didn't get any wood," they said, "but we had a lot of fun." And that, unless I have been misinformed, is what tournaments are for.

The hegira goes down in their book as the story of "The Long Road Back," or "Fun On a Train."

"We don't do this sort of thing very often," they chirped, "but when we do, how we do enjoy it."

As for their failure to collect any kindling, they explained:

"The heat was on, alright, but in another part of town, and the kindling was going up in smoke.

"A burlesque house burnt up while we were bowling. What chance did we have with that competition?"

City Bucket Games Booked

City league cage games scheduled tomorrow night at the Senior high gym pit Ohio Seamless Tube against Club Billiards in the opener at 7 p. m., Blue Goose against Westinghouse at 8, and Yuncker's against Athletic Supply.

With tournament play the rule in the second half schedule, the elimination probably will fall on one or more teams in this set of games.

Hallabrin Gets First Big Chance

Mansfielder Is Only Experienced Fullback.

COLUMBUS (UP)—A squad of more than 800 husky young men was scheduled to report today to youthful Paul E Brown for the initial indoor drill in preparation for the 1941 Ohio State football season.

His emphasis of the necessity for every candidate to attend these winter and spring drills even at the expense of their participation in other sports brought home to the new coach a shortage of experienced fullback material.

Harold (Cookie) Nichols of Marietta, who was a promising sophomore on the Buckeye squad last fall, told Brown he had decided to forgo the pigskin sport in favor of baseball.

"I had to talk with Brown because I didn't want anyone to think I was running out," Nichols explained. "But I can't play football and baseball at the same time and I think I have a better chance at baseball."

Best of the freshmen newcomers appear to be Bob Hecklinger from Toledo and John Fyre from Crestline. John Kouski, a line plunger on the freshman squad from Bridgeport, has been cut down at least temporarily by ineligibility.

The indoor workouts will continue for three weeks. Brown met his squad for a series of lectures last week.

Southpaws Lose Return Match

Mansfield Westinghouse lefthanders were defeated for the second time by Galion portsiders when they met in the second-half of a home-and-home match yesterday at Meder alleys.

The Galion fork-arms won two out of three games, and held a pin advantage of 2,496 to 2,244.

25 Ohio College Quintets Wind Up Season This Week

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The last big splurge of Ohio's intercollegiate basketball season is this week, with 25 of the Buckeye squads winding up their campaign in a 33-game program.

Following Saturday's contests, only 11 games will remain during the final 14 days of the season, with a dozen Ohio squads participating in the late scraps.

Fireworks aplenty are possible in the closing games, with both the state and Ohio conference champions riding on the results. Mount Union, league pace-setter all season, was knocked off the top perch Saturday by Wooster's defending champions, the Scots taking the lead.

Mount Union must get past John Carroll to stay atop the state-wide heap—a chore that doesn't look too tough since the Cleveland club has won only seven of 16 games while the Raiders have copped 13 of 14.

Wooster's reign at the conference peak, however, may be brief. The Scots must brush aside Kenyon and mighty Wittenberg this week. The Lords, victorious in but two of a dozen starts, figure to offer little opposition to the aspiring Alliance crew, but Wittenberg is a different matter.

Coach Bill Stobbs' Springfielders, after losing their first three conference starts following a disastrous eastern tour, have found themselves and bowled over seven league opponents in a row. Wooster has won 40 loop games in a stretch on its home hardwoods, but Wittenberg looms as a definite threat to cut that string.

And should Wooster triumph over the Lutherans, the Scots must still get by Muskingum to take the bunting, and that one is scheduled on the Musky floor March 4. The Scots should they bow to either Wittenberg of Muskingum, would hand the laurels back to Mt. Union.

Mid-Atlantic Berth Sought

Springfield Prepares For Return to League.

SPRINGFIELD—(UP)—Approval of Springfield's re-entry into the Mid-Atlantic baseball league was expected Wednesday at a meeting here of league officials called by President Elmer M. Daily of Ebensberg, Pa.

The Springfield Chamber of Commerce Baseball committee has been dickering with the St. Louis Cardinals for a working agreement and official announcement of such an agreement is expected Wednesday. The Cardinals withdrew their support last week from the Portsmouth team of the Mid-Atlantic.

Daily has reported to the local committee that Akron, Canton, Youngstown and Charleston, W. Va., are definitely set for the 1941 season. Dayton and Zanesville may be other teams in the league. The Dayton team recently lost the major league support of Brooklyn.

Springfield has been out of the Mid-Atlantic circuit since December, 1939, when President H. B. "Buzz" Weivel, then head of the Springfield Indians, announced the withdrawal of his interests to Charleston. The baseball committee has raised $5,009 by public subscription for support of a team.

Hitting 591 of 600, Mrs. Dorother Kelly, of Akron, the nation's No. 1 feminine shot, whipped the largest field in the 16-year history of the event to retain the most sought-for title—the all-around midwest title. Her 591 score tied the meet record set several years ago by Sam Bond, New Philadelphia sharp-shooter.

Mrs. Kelly also retained her Ohio women's title with scores of 100, 94, 95 for 289 of 300 in a three-position match.

F. A. Lewis, of Springfield, who lost his right arm in an accident several years ago, annexed the Tewes prone event in a shootoff after tying at 300 of 300 with Scott Romig, of Uhrichsville; F. R. Sells, of Mansfield; Mrs. Kelly, Stan Grooms, of Grove City, and A. W. Hunsicker, of Akron. The Springfield dead-eye hit the fifteen-hundredths-inch, 10-point ring 36 times before missing in the shootoff. Mrs. Kelly finishing second in this event.

Other winners included: Ohio college, three positions—Bob Singer, Akron, 271-300; second, Fred Gierhart, Ohio State, 269-300, offhand, standing, Larry Wilkins, Cleveland, 192-200, state team, Ohio senior team, 2837-3000; second, Connecticut, 2803-3000.

Bissman's Hit Game of 1,075

Bissman Birdie Brand keglers cracked the maples for a 1,075 game while scoring a 2-1 victory over Fostoria Aldrich Recreation in the N. C. O. traveling league yesterday at the Meder alleys.

Johnny Leppo paced the Bissman attack with a 649 total on games of 202-237-210. Farrell Hipp crashed through with 616 on 180-233-203. Leppo's 237 was high game for the match.

Liederkranz bowlers lost all three games to Norwalk Truck Lines in a league match at Norwalk, as the home rollers chalked up a 1,042 game in the last trip to the alleys.

Bill Donnellan led the Mansfield team with 606, while for Norwalk Goul turned in a 642 and Steyer 622.

Badgers Meet Hoosier Quint In Title Tilt

Big Ten Leaders Take Role of Underdog Against Indiana

By STEVE SNIDER
(United Press Sport Writer)

CHICAGO—Wisconsin, Big Ten leader but nevertheless an underdog, goes into the heart of the Hoosier basketball country tonight in an attempt to clinch at least a share of the conference championship by defeating Indiana's national collegiate titleholders.

A victory for Wisconsin would guarantee the Badgers a won and lost record of 10 and two, which Indiana could match, but not exceed, by sweeping the remaining games on its schedule.

Wisconsin has yet to play Indiana and Minnesota. Indiana meets Wisconsin, Purdue, and Chicago.

If Indiana wins tonight, however, the Hoosiers will be heavy favorites to continue undefeated although Purdue administered their only conference drubbing of the season in an earlier contest. Purdue has skidded to sixth place since knocking off Indiana.

Also scheduled tonight are third place Minnesota (6-3) against last place Chicago (0-9), fourth place Ohio State (6-4) at Illinois (5-5), Purdue (4-5) at Iowa (3-6) and Northwestern (2-7) at Michigan (4-6).

The Wisconsin-Indiana clash has been styled the key game of the 1941 campaign since Wisconsin began a nine game winning streak in January.

With virtually the same team that finished second to Purdue in the Big Ten and continued on to the national collegiate championship, Indiana was the team to beat from the outset. Busy Wisconsin, however, picked up an extra game during Indiana's mid-semester lull and remained in first place ever since.

Wisconsin's hopes are centered in Gene Englund and Johnny Kotz, its celebrated one-two punch. Englund increased his conference scoring lead over Chicago's Joe Stampf Saturday night although he soon was removed when the Badgers began piling up what eventually was a 65 to 25 rout.

Englund's 17 points against Chicago lifted his total to 137, six better than Stampf who scored 13. Stampf, however, still is the favorite to win the individual title. He has one more game than Englund still to play.

Indiana's strength is its balance. Any one of five men can score and rigging a defense for a team like that is a man-sized job.

Hoosier balance swept over Iowa Saturday night, 47 to 36.

Minnesota has just about given up any title hopes although a combination of upsets could bring the Gophers a share. Minnesota tied a scoring record Saturday night by defeating Purdue 68 to 50 and together they set a new conference mark with a total of 118. Minnesota's 68 tied a previous high set by Purdue in 1934.

Ohio State continued in fourth place by defeating Northwestern, 35 to 29, and Michigan stepped up to seventh with a victory over Illinois, 47 to 31.

The Standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Wisconsin	9	1	.900
Indiana	8	1	.889
Minnesota	6	3	.667
Ohio State	6	5	.600
Illinois	5	5	.500
Purdue	4	5	.444
Michigan	4	6	.400
Iowa	3	6	.333
Northwestern	2	7	.222
Chicago	0	9	.000

Games Tonight:

Wisconsin at Indiana, Chicago at Minnesota, Ohio State at Illinois, Purdue at Iowa, Northwestern at Michigan.

Clevelanders Take Pin Lead

M. Tighe Rolls 577 In Women's Singles Event.

DAYTON—(AP)—Cleveland and Columbus keglers took over the lead in Class A singles and all-events to top assorted standings' changes in the Ohio State Women's Bowling tourney over the week-end.

M. Tigue rolled 577 to grab a nine-point advantage over another Clevelander, Ethel Suchan, in the Class A singles, while in the all-events Florence Seeds of Columbus set the pace with 1654 to shover Rose Sucan of Cleveland into second with the 1616 she scored the previous week.

Two Middletown Class B teams, Joseph R. Baker with 2343 and Reed-Klopp with 2329, rolled into fourth and fifth places, respectively, but failed to seriously challenge the 2516 posted by the leading Iron Kettles of Cleveland.

The Class A double combination of R. Hine, Salem, and M. Greenwalt, Alliance, smashed a 1061 for third place behind Mary Dancik and Rose Suchan of Cleveland with 1095, and Fannie Parks and Grace Fulton of Warren with 1087.

In the Class B doubles, M. Kline and H. Caldwell of Salem had 1019 to take the second spot behind P. Withers and Lura Newcomer of Zanesville with 1024.

Cage Joust Advances To Finals

Chatfield and Whetstone Meet For Title.

GALION — Again packing the Junior high school auditorium to capacity, around 1500 basketball fans from the county and city witnessed four games Saturday night for the third round of the Crawford County Class B Basketball tournament which started last Tuesday.

Two of the winning teams, Saturday night, Chatfield and Whetstone, are to play the finals next Saturday night, March 1.

Holmes-Liberty and Tiro, were also winning quintets Saturday night.

Games and the scores played Saturday evening are as follows:

Chatfield 38, North Robinson 32; Whetstone 38, New Washington 24; Holmes-Liberty 29, Mt. Zion 27; Tiro 40, Lykens 33.

When the games opened last Tuesday night, Chatfield, Tiro, Whetstone and New Washington were winners.

On Thursday evening the winning schools were: Whetstone, North Robinson, Holmes-Liberty and Lykens.

The tournament has progressed with more and more action as competition becomes keener. Under the double elimination process a team must lose twice in order to be disqualified from second place in the tournament.

This Thursday night, Feb. 26, a sportsmanship trophy will be presented to the school having the highest rating based upon four points each game of baseball and basketball for a total 100 points during the year. Any other school receiving over 80 points will be presented a sportsmanship plaque.

At the close of the tournament Saturday, March 1, at 10 o'clock, the tournament trophies will be awarded with cups going to the first, second and third place winners and the tournament basketball to the fourth place winner.

Leesville, Sulphur Springs, Lykens, and Mt. Zion have each lost two games which will eliminate them from the tournament.

Schools having won two games and lost one are Tiro, Holmes-Liberty; while North Robinson has won one game and lost one, and New Washington also has won one game and lost one.

M'SPADEN PACKS PUTTER, AND FIRST PRIZE DOUGH

THOMASVILLE, Ga.—(U.P.)—Jug McSpaden, Boston, Mass., professional, packed his putter and $700 first prize in the sixth annual Thomasville Open Golf tournament in the same bag today and headed for Florida and the $5000 St. Petersburg tournament.

McSpaden won the Thomasville, his first major victory this season, with a 54-hole aggregate of 207, nine under par, yesterday.

At 215 were Lloyd Mangrum, defending champion from Chicago; Chandler Harris of Portsmouth, Va., and Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y. Each collected $360.

THEATERS

Marry In Haste.

When James Stewart marries Hedy LaMarr in "Come Live With Me" showing at the Madison, he saves her from deportation, writes a successful novel using her situation for a plot,and doesn't repent his hasty marriage in leisure or any other time. It's gay romance with Hedy unable to decide which of her two pursuers she loves and keeping you in suspense until the closing shots. Loaded with thrills, interspersed with comedy and absorbing mystery "Texas Rangers Ride Again" across the screen of the Madison with John Howard in their lead.

Double Trouble.

Mickey Rooney gets a double dose of girl trouble in his latest Hardy Family laugh hit, "Andy Hardy's Secretary," playing at the Ohio theater. Ann Rutherford plays her familiar role of Andy's high school sweetheart while Kathryn Grayson makes her debut as his 'private secretary.' Remember the thrills of high school graduation? You'll have them again when you see this picture.

"The Letter."

Coolie boys drowsing in their hammocks start as the crack of a shot splits the still air of the rubber plantation. With such a start and with Bette Davis as the star of "The Letter" the picture fairly crackles with drama and danger throughout its run. James Stephenson as her lawyer will be long remembered for his sincere interpretation as will Herbert Marshall who takes the role of her husband. "The Letter" plays at the Ritz today along with "Sky Devils" starring Spencer Tracy.

"Melody and Moonlight."

The new film musical, "Melody and Moonlight" continues at the Park today. With a refreshing array of new songs and dances tied together with an entertaining plot it should please most audiences. Gene Autrey, a-ridin' and a-singin' along through "Ride, Tenderfoot, Ride" is the other half of the new bill.

Horses and a Horse.

For horse-lovers there could be no finer picture than 'Florian" at the Majestic today. Starring Robert Young and Helen Gilbert amidst the pomp and spectacle of colorful and gay Imperial Austria it relates the love story of a boy and girl through the life of a magnificent Lippizan horse. You'll want to see it a second time to remember the beauty and gallantry of the beautiful horse, "Florian." With Boris Karloff in the leading role "The Devil Commands" in a haunted house to complete the new program.

Schnozzle Missing at Reds Camp

Lombardi Absent From Battery Practice.

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Pitchers and catchers of the world champion Cincinnati Reds opened the training season here today, but Catcher Ernesto Natali Lombardi was not among them.

Manager Bill McKechnie is "sure the big fellow will be here in time to get plenty of practice" but declined further comment on Ernie's hold-out, which, he said, is "up to the boss" (General Manager Warren C. Giles).

Wild rumors were that "Big Schnoz" gained 50 pounds and is going to give up baseball to become a commercial fisherman. These stories aren't taken very seriously by the camp, which knows the 225-pound mittman as a diet-watcher and opines that he'll tiptoe into town in a few days, ask for a pen and sign for that $16,000.

Ernie's not the sort to engage in long-winded arguments over his contract, and his decision probably will be announced with the same abruptness of the not "satisfied" which he has penciiled on his contract offers.

Lom has been with the Reds since 1932.

All in all, opening-day atmosphere was pretty optimistic.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP)—When the rest of the Cleveland Indians arrive tomorrow they will find the 19-man pitching staff already well advanced in training—and throwing curves. The squad will have less than two weeks to prepare for its exhibition opener against the Dodgers in Havana March 7. Outfielders Roy Weatherly and Jeff Heath still were holdouts.

Flier Working on Steam Engine for Use In Aircraft

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(U.P.)—Capt. H. B. Reuschenberg is working on plans for a silent, steam-powered airplane which he believes will solve many problems facing the army air corps.

In disclosing his plans, he explained that steam airplanes would "be fast, economical, noiseless, and so easy to manufacture that 50,000 planes a year would be easy."

Rueschenberg, a veteran flier for Northwest Airlines, is preparing to make a model and test it soon, and believes the ships may be introduced successfully before the war ends.

"The shortage of fuel in Europe should be an important factor in modern development of this type engine and in making it popular with the public," Rueschenberg said. He added that in his plane small burners would generate the steam and that present fuel loads of planes could be cut down.

ONE-WORD ROLE STARS ACTRESS

'Johnny' Brings Fame To Helen Craig In Part of Deaf Mute.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Helen Craig is a Broadway star now, her name up in lights and on billboards, but her swift rise to fame is unlike that of any other actress for she attained her eminence by saying a single word.

That word is "Johnny." It is the curtain line of the play "Johnny Belinda" and for the three acts preceding it Miss Craig lives through the suffering of an outcast deaf-mute and her spiritual rebirth under the sympathetic guidance of a doctor.

She lives through it without saying a word except that one ("Johnny"), but her lines are as clear to the audience as though she had spoken them for she uses the classic sign language of the deaf-mutes—as differentiated from the finger alphabet. And the show has been running since September, an indication to the producers that brilliant dialogue doesn't always make a show.

Miss Craig is the daughter of Edward A. Craig, an Anaconda copper executive and the wife of John Beal, the film actor. Five years ago she walked into the office of a producer looking for a role and Harry Wagstaff Gribble was struck by her brunette beauty. He was talking at the time to Elmer Harris who wrote "Johnny Belinda" and they decided then that she was the one for the part.

They did not approach her for four years. Then she was told the type role they had in mind for her. She was warned it would take six months of study and might last only a few days if the critics didn't like it. She took the chance.

Miss Craig, although known as a competent actress, had not attracted much attention from the films or the stage until she took her current role. In it she has the least to say of any star in recent years. But her voiceless part has "talked" her right into stardom.

Youth Tossed 35 Feet By Truck; Escapes Injury

SAN RAFAEL, Cal. — (U.P.) — Amador Silva, 26, walked out of the Buckeye Inn where he was employed as a dish washer.

A huge truck struck him head on.

Like the young man on the flying trapeze, Silva "flew through the air with the greatest of ease."

Policemen and traffic officers measured up and found that he flew for 35 feet.

Additional measurements showed that one shoe flew 50 feet and the other 80 feet.

Silva gathered up his shoes and insisted on going home.

The police insisted on his going to the hospital.

They outnumbered him, so he went to the hospital.

There, no injuries could be found.

He again insisted on going home.

But the hospital insisted he remain for a "possible concussion."

So he remained. But there wasn't any.

GOAT PARADE

Dogs Follow 'Em Right Down Aisle In Church Service.

STOCK LEADERS DISPLAY MILD RISING TRENDS

'Do Nothing' Bloc Fails To Follow Lead; Steel Output Boosted.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Mild rising tendencies were displayed by leading stocks in today's market but many issues continued to linger in the do-nothing division.

Favored in early bidding were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, United Aircraft and Glenn Martin.

Bonds failed to show a definite trend. Commodities held to a fairly steady course.

Share customers discovered little in either the domestic or foreign news to get excited about, brokers said.

Market analysts noted the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said the prospects were that metal orders in February would top those of January despite the shorter month.

Studied also was the report of the Twentieth Century Fund forecasting a demand for labor that "will certainly exceed the number of unemployed persons in the labor market" as a result of the recent major increases in the defense program.

PARTING SLAP

Mercury Goes Down To 2; It'll Be Warmer, Then Colder.

The cold wave, which showed signs of relaxing its grip yesterday, gave Mansfield a parting slap this morning when the mercury dropped to two above zero, one of the lowest marks of the season.

A break in the cold wave is due today, however, the weatherman promised. He forecast cloudy and warmer weather tonight with snow Tuesday and colder again by Tuesday night.

Downtown Mansfield was clouded in smog early today, keeping the city in semi-darkness after higher areas nearby were warmed by bright sunshine.

Soon after the blanket of smoke and fog lifted, the mercury started to rise and climbed to 26 degrees by noon.

The cold today was over northern Ohio only, with Cincinnati reporting a low of 26 degrees. Cleveland had five degrees and Akron and Columbus nine above.

Sue For Divorce.

Eleanor McKee vs. Henry McKee. Action for divorce on grounds of neglect and cruelty. Plaintiff seeks custody of a child and household goods.

Elsie Kochheiser vs. Eugene Kochheiser. For divorce on grounds of neglect and cruelty. Plaintiff asks restoration of her former name of Moore.

Probate Court.

Bertha F. Nichols, Mansfield, appointed executrix of estate of Dr. John H. Nichols, late of Mansfield.

Correction.

In the courthouse calendar for Feb. 20 it was stated erroneously that the estate of the late Mrs. Mary A. Dillon included a grocery store at Marion and Vernum avenue. The estate included only a third interest in the store which will be divided among five children. Lloyd F. Dillon, a son, owns no other part of the interest.

SAYS AID BILL DECLARES WAR

Senator Clark, Idaho, Leads Day's Attack on Measure To Help Britain.

made propaganda has become too much for us."

"I am cognizant of the fact that we are going to war," he continued, "whether we call it war or not. I don't know how to stop it, but I intend to live whatever the future may allot me in knowing that I did my best."

Administration opened the seventh day of debate with predictions that the bill would be passed Friday or Saturday in virtually its present form by better than a two-to-one majority.

But opponents claimed they would be able to amend it. Sen. Allen J. Ellender, (D., La.) predicted victory for his amendment which declares that nothing in the bill authorizes despatch of American armed forces outside the western hemisphere, except to U. S. possessions, including the Philippine islands.

Ellender said he had been promised between 54 and 58 votes. A senate majority is 49. Administration leaders said some of those pledges would be changed by word that Secretary of State Cordell Hull opposed the amendment because of the effect it would have on the "moral influence" of the of the United States in international crises.

Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, (R., Calif.) said the Ellender amendment tests the administration's "sincerity;" that if it is defeated, "it means administration forces intend to get into this war with men."

Chairman Walter F. George (D., Ga.) of the senate foreign relations committee replied that the amendment was unnecessary because nothing in the bill "authorizes or implies prospective use of American soldiers in foreign wars."

Clark will be followed in debate today by Sen. John A. Danaher, (R., Conn.) another opponent of the bill. Sen. James E. Murray, (D., Mont.) then will speak for the bill and be followed by another opponent, Sen Charles W. Tobey, (R., N.J.)

SECOND FLOOR OF HOSPITAL ADDITION OPENS THIS WEEK

The second floor of the new $80,000 addition to Mansfield General hospital will be used for the first time Tuesday or Wednesday, Dr. O. F. Fonkalsrud, superintendent said today.

Opening of the second floor marks the completion of two of the three levels in the new addition. The top floor has been in use since January.

Capacity of the hospital will be increased to approximately 160 by the use of 18 beds on the second floor Fonkalsrud stated. Each of the two new floors added 18 beds for use in the hospital.

The use of individual wall lockers for individual patients, instead of bureaus for personal belongings, marks the only unusual feature of the two floors now completed, Fonkalsrud stated.

Alterations in older parts of the building have been in progress as work on the addition reached completion. A former women's ward has been remodeled to comprise two wards. Construction of a corridor from the older part of the building to the addition is responsible for the change.

Completion of the entire addition will take at least another month, Fonkalsrud said. The ground floor will include a new kitchen and additional dining room space.

As the new addition is opened for use, constant rearrangements of old facilities takes place. Fonkalsrud asserted. There will be a formal opening to the public upon completion of the building, he stated.

HOW TO GET A LOA

BRITISH, TURKS STIFFEN STAND ON TWO FRONTS

London Warns Japan Against Pacific Expansion, While Bulgaria Gets Firm Hint.

heralded speech in Rome, acknowledged that British victories in Italian North Africa had destroyed "one entire army" as well as the "fifth air squadron" in Libya.

But he declared "Italy, whatever happens, will march to the end side by side with Germany," and predicted that German air and armored detachments now are in Sicily and Libya.

Il Duce said that 14,000 officers and 396,358 men had been stationed in Libya to drive toward the Suez canal. But the British, he said, had gotten the jump on the Italians by attacking "five or ten days" before the Italians were ready to start their own push.

Mussolini also said the Italian "season" was coming in which the Greeks in Albania would be dealt with. In Athens a few hours later a government spokesman said that the Greeks had captured 1,272 Italians during the past week, repulsed 16 Fascist counter-attacks and shot down six Italian planes.

The British admiralty announced at least seven Italian supply ships had been sunk in the Mediterranean.

Mussolini struck out at the United States, too, as a "financial oligarchy dominated by Jewry" and derided American fears of Axis invasion of the western hemisphere.

German long range guns opened fire on Britain's coast across the Dover Straits early today after strong forces of German aircraft yesterday swarmed over the channel where they were met by British fighters.

Some of the raiders broke through and a few explosions were heard in the London district. The capital had two night alerts of brief duration.

The British again reported attacks on the German invasion ports of Boulogne and Calais on the Nazi-occupied French coast.

In Africa, the British claimed the capture of Shoghai on the Blue Nile in Ethiopia. In Italian Eritrea, French Senegalese troops joined the British in the campaign there against the Fascists.

Mussolini's high command asserted that "violent enemy attacks" against the Italian garrison in the Giarabub oasis, in Libya, had been "smashed once more" by "the tenacious resistance of our heroic troops."

In East Africa, the Fascist communique said, two companies of Italian troops attacked "preponderant" British forces west of Zilmami, in the Sudan, compelling the British to retreat "with heavy losses" after fierce resistance.

The high command also reported heavy fighting in the lower Juba zone of Italian Somaliland, where the British say they have twice crossed the Juba river in a drive toward the capital and Indian ocean port, Mogadiscio.

Delegates to the Thailand (Siam)-French Indo-China peace conference in Tokyo were summoned to what was called a most important session and the armistice between the two countries was extended to March 7. It was to have expired tomorrow.

There were reports in Saigon, French Indo-China, that serious obstacles still stood in the way of a final settlement of the border dispute and a French cruiser and two destroyers were shifted suddenly and without explanation from the Saigon river to an unannounced place.

British Claim New Gains in Eritrea

CAIRO —(U.P.)— British columns, striking into Italian East Africa from three directions, were reported by British general headquarters today to have made new gains in Eritrea, Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland.

A column pushing southward down the coast of Eritrea was reported to have dispersed Italian troops holding positions about Cubcub and captured many prisoners. The advance was said to be continuing.

In Ethiopia, British advance units were reported to have reached Amanit on the road to Gondar.

Forces driving northward in Italian Somaliland were reported to have captured many prisoners and quantities of war materal in taking the important part of Margherita and pushing on to Gelib. Details of this operation, however, were lacking.

Warships Beat Off Nazi Plane Attack

WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET — (AP) — British warships beat off attempts by German bombers to smash a group of convoyed ships and brought the vessels safely through to a central Mediterranean port today.

German low-level raiders attacked the fleet units three times. Withering anti-aircraft barrages, aided by navy fighter planes, accounted for five of the Nazi attackers.

(The German high command announced today that in the Mediterranean German combat planes sank a 10,000-ton "enemy merchantman" north of the Libyan port of Derna and informed Berlin sources said a 4,000-ton freighter was believed sunk in the same area.)

Italy Seeks Asylum In French Tunisia

VICHY, France —(U.P.)— Italy was reported today to have offered to give back the strip of France she seized last June in return for permission to move 80,000 Italian colonists from Libya to Tunisia in case the British drove Italy's Libyan army to the Tunisian frontier.

This deal was said to have been the subject of conversations among Benito Mussolini, Francisco Franco of Spain and Marshal Philippe Petain of France at Bordighera and Montpellier recently. Franco was said to have acted as intermediary after the matter first had been taken up with Francois Pietri, Franch ambasador to Spain.

In return for the colonists' safety, Mussolini was said to have offered to give up the Mentone area in the Riviera, and the upper Maurienne valley in the Alps, his only war booty from France so far.

STILL GRAVE

Alfonso's Condition Critical Though He Has Restful Night.

ROME—(AP)—Dr. Giovanni Colazza, personal physicain to former King Alfonso XIII of Spain, described the ex-monarch today as still "gravely ill."

He added, however, that a "general examination" of the ex-king's condition disclosed that "some symptoms were relieved and his majesty passed a much quieter night, particularly the latter half."

DRIVER HELD

SHELBY—Thomas Turner was held at city jail today for appearance before Mayor W. R. Morris's court on charges of reckless driving.

Turner was arrested by state highway patrolmen over the weekend on an affidavit filed by Sherman Ferguson of Willard following an accident involving cars driven by Turner and Ferguson. Turner was driving on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred on route 39 near Shelby. Ferguson told state highway patrolmen.

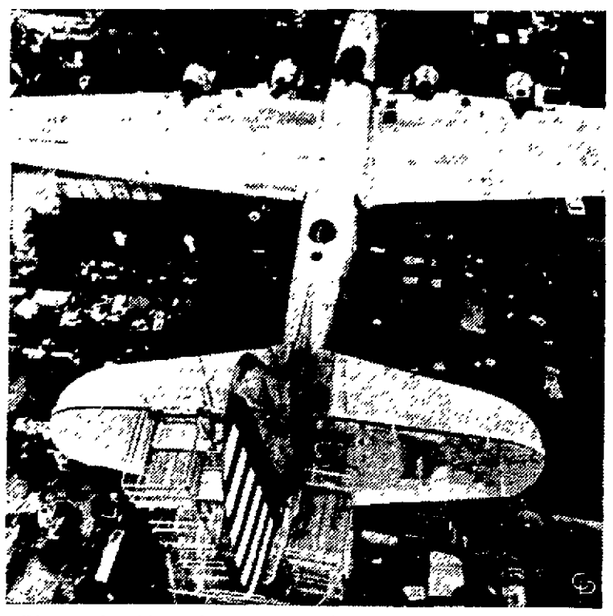
Biggest Bomber Nearly Ready



Biggest bombing plane ever built, the huge Douglas B-19, is shown in the plant at Santa Monica, Cal., where it is rapidly nearing completion. The 80-ton giant is expected to take to the air within six weeks. Costing $2,000,000, it stands three stories high, has a 212-foot wingspread and boasts 8,000 horsepower.

ed in advance of the test and all persons in other parts of London were told that if they planned to visit Pimlico they had better wear their gas masks.

The area chosen for the test was well fitted to lend realism to the experiment. Because of its proximity to Victoria Station, Pimlico has been "badly knocked about," as the residents themselves say.

Against this background of destruction, Pimlico Londoners put on their masks while ARP squads in gas-proof clothing worked in ruined houses on decontamination duties. Ambulances rushed hypothetical casualties and poisoning victims to hospitals, walls and furniture were sprayed with anti-gas preparations and everything was done with the same clockwork precision expected if a real attack comes.

Says British Planned Invasion of Italy

ROME — (INS) — A sensational charge that Britain planned to invade Italy at the time this country entered the European war was published today by Virginio Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini.

Gayda said that for this reason Italy entered the war without sufficient preparation. He also admitted that Italy had made "certain mistakes."

"Italy entered the war without sufficient preparation to fulfill its promises," Gayda wrote.

"If we had waited, the conflict would have been brought fatally to Italian soil and Italian seas. The enemy planned an invasion of the Po valley.

"Italy's dark and difficult days can be explained by the fact we are fighting the weight of the British empire as well as by certain mistakes on our part.

"A better and perhaps decisive stage of the war is approaching, in which Italy is ready to participate. This may end the war."

BAGLEY FUNERAL RITES PLANNED

SHELBY—Mrs. William R. Bagley, 71, of 28 Second street died Saturday at Shelby Memorial hospital following an illness of the past year.

Do You Know About Funeral Homes?

Few people are familiar with the equipment required in a modern funeral home.

In the Finefrock Funeral Home there are adjoining assembly rooms, a private family room . . . slumber rooms . . . a display room with ample stock of merchandise . . . and the preparation room is as complete and sanitary as the operating room of a hospital.

All these facilities, including organ music, are available to every patron at no extra cost. And, important to many, the cost of Finefrock Funeral Service is no more than any other.

PREDICTS START OF 'ALL OUT' SEA WAR ON BRITAIN

Hitler Says Nazi Subs Will Hunt Down British In All Waters.

begun to arrive," he said. "I have just received the news that our forces and submarines based on Belgium have sunk another 250,000 tons."

He said that submarines took 190,000 tons of this total alone and sank 125,000 tons of shipping from a single convoy.

"But the gentlemen," he said, "had better be prepared for entirely different figures in March and April.

"They will then realize if we have slept during the winter or not. During these long months of preparation Italy has materially assisted us.

"It makes no difference whether we meet the enemy in the North sea or in the Mediterranean. Wherever British boats appear our submarines will be ready for them."

Hitler declared that date after date had been set for his collapse by foreign propagandists.

"The same prophets are at work now as the assistants of British propaganda and foreign offices," he said.

He recalled that Neville Chamberlain had asserted that "Hitler missed the bus."

"Even today," he said, "they keep setting dates. One of them is that in 1941 England will carry the war to the continent. We have to run after them even to find them but we shall find them wherever it may be."

Hitler addressed his early Nazi associates in the same beer hall where the party was founded 21 years ago today. The hall was decorated simply and the scene resembled that of the night of Feb. 24, 1920 when Hitler on the same spot proclaimed for the first time the Nazi party program.

On the improvised speaker's stand was a small swastika. The party comrades sat at long wooden tables. Behind the speaker's stand was the Nazi "blood flag" flanked by two SS officers.

Hitler was introduced by Adolf Wagner, Munich gauleiter, who declared that "this year, my fuehrer, you are fighting Germany's decisive battle."

"We all know," Wagner said, "that you did not want war. Justice is with Adolf Hitler and therefore, Adolf Hitler, you will be victorious."

Hitler declared that only the Nazi party could have freed Germany from the shackles of Versailles.

"The American president," he said, "swore we would get this and we would get that, once we laid down our weapons.

"We have witnessed how these pledges were carried out.

"Democratic Germany was treated as it had merited. I have studied the Versailles pact as hardly anyone else has. I have not forgotten it, not to this day. I have memorized it page by page, backward and forward—this most shameful document of all time."

Hitler said that the Allied powers needed a democratic Germany to carry out the Versailles pact because, he charged, no other form of government would have submitted to the treaty.

"The Versailles pact could not be annulled through submission," he said, "but only through the strength of the German nation.

"People said that is impossible. Certainly, it was under 46 parties and many conflicting interests. But once this was overcome, then Germany could look forward to the inclusion of more than 80,000,000 people or almost 40,000,000 more than the English.

"The war has proved the value of this figure."

day and worried employes sent out a call for police assistance in rounding up the animal, giving a detailed description to the officers.

But if it hadn't been for an accident early Sunday on North Diamond street and the eagle eye of Patrolman Glenn Adams, the pup would probably still be on the loose.

Adams sighted the animal about 4 a. m. when he arrived on the scene, and set out on foot to catch up with it, making several frantic grabs at the leash the dog was still dragging with it.

But the dog was not to be taken so easily and playfully led the light-footed officer a merry chase back and forth across the railroad yards.

And about the time the sweating patrolman was ready to give up, Capt. Jesse Schwab and Patrolman E. D. Mitchell came to the weary officers' rescue and cornered the panting animal.

Couple Married At North Auburn Church Saturday

SHELBY—Of interest to Shelby residents was the wedding uniting miss Rosemary Alt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Alt of New Washington, to Gerald Baker of Ashland which took place at 9 a. m. Saturday at Mother of Sorrows Catholic church at North Auburn.

Rev. J. A. Inkrott, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony before members of the families and friends. Attending the couple were the bride's sister, Miss Anna Mae Alt of Shelby, and brother, Francis Alt of New Washington.

A wedding breakfast was served the bridal party at the bride's parents' home in New Washington. Later in the day they left for a short motor trip.

The former Miss Alt has been a nurse for the past three years at Willard Municipal hospital. The bridegroom is employed at Gilbert Furniture and Undertaking company at Ashland.

FEAR 13 DROWN

Ice Cutters Reported Lost as Truck Breaks Through.

MONTREAL, Que.—(INS)—Thirteen men employed as ice cutters on the St. Lawrence river, were believed drowned today when a truck in which they were riding, crashed through the ice.

There were 15 men in the truck but two, Benoit Leduc and Marcel Senecal, were rescued.

All were employes of the Gerard Brunnell Ice company. The tragedy occurred off the shore of Longueeil on the south bank of the river opposite Montreal.

HURT IN BLAST

Woman Injured As Gas Explodes In Basement of Home.

DEFIANCE —(INS)— A gas explosion which demolished her residence at nearby Ney today left Mrs. H. W. Mantle, 60, in critical condition in Defiance hospital.

Authorities said natural gas, bubbling from an abandoned water well in the basement, exploded when ignited by the furnace fire, wrecking the $5,000 house and shattering windows in nearby buildings.

SMOKE FILLS JAIL

IRONTON —(AP)— There was smoke aplenty in Lawrence county jail last week-end. Sheriff Fred Sanders said two prisoners fired a pile of eight mattresses, forcing 14 inmates to crawl along a hallway to a smoke-free portion of the jail.

SHELBY HIGH SCHOOL SPEECH TEAM WINS COLUMBUS HONORS

SHELBY — Shelby High School speech team took several individual event honors in the tournament Saturday at North high school in Columbus.

John Purdy of Shelby, took first place over 45 other contestants in the dramatic division of the tournament. Mary Ann Reed of Massillon took second place and Lois Pittenger of Shelby third.

Other Shelby students placing in the finals were Tom Sutter and Robert Schiffer, who took third and fourth places respectively in extempore speech; and Jean Garvin, fifth in oratory declamation.

Shelby tied with Fremont, Hamilton and Lima Central in the debate division of the affair. All four teams won five and lost one debate, so the final ranking was made by points which put Shelby in third place. Fremont was first. Hamilton, second; and Lima Central, fourth.

Shelby varsity debate team was composed of Miss Sally Van Horn, Miss Jo Ann Fish, Miss Betty Hart and Raymon Zeiters. They defeated Wooster, Fostoria, Dayton Fairmont, Columbus West and Washington Court House. Hamilton defeated Shelby.

Eugene Gump of Mansfield, took first place honors in the humorous declamation division.

More than 400 high school orators from cities throughout the state took part in the all-day tournament.

Speech Supervisor Leonard Linsenmayer had charge of the Shelby group which included the largest delegation of students from here ever to attend a speech tournament. Sixty-five entries were filed by Shelby.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1941.

The old saying, "What goes up must come down," was probably never intended to apply to taxes.

That thin little word, "if," attains even greater importance when used to qualify the otherwise confident assertion, "Britain can win."

It appears that after having borrowed Wendell Willkie from the Democrats for a few months the Republicans are ready to return him, with thanks.

First of Public Meeting Series

AS HAS been done for the past several years, Mansfield's University and Rotary clubs are again co-operating to bring nationally prominent speakers to this city for public meetings at which no admission charge is made.

The first of these is to be tomorrow evening at John Simpson Junior high school auditorium, corner West Fourth and Bowman streets, and the speaker will be Major Sedley Peck, on the subject, "I Saw France Fall."

Major Peck is a member of the national executive committee of the American Legion, one of the founders of the Paris post, and a member of the Legion of Honor. His experiences and observations in France, Spain and Italy place him in position to give first-hand information about what has been going on in Europe. After an address in Larchmont, N. Y., in January, the commander of the American Legion post there said: ". . . no one held their audience spellbound as you did. . . I only hope that every American is given the same privilege that we had to hear you speak."

As has been customary at these forum meetings, opportunity will be given after the talk for persons in the audience to ask questions which Major Peck will answer.

The Rotary and University clubs are meeting the cost of bringing to Mansfield people this series of talks on timely subjects as a part of their community service activities. An invitation to attend is extended to all interested men and women of this city and vicinity. The meeting is to open at 8 o'clock.

Federal Lottery Again Proposed

WHENEVER need arises for extra money, as in the defense program, somebody is sure to pop up with the bright idea that a lottery should be established. It appears that a recent referendum in Massachusetts showed a majority favorable to a federal lottery to help defray defense costs.

Locally, and over Ohio, the suggestion is frequently made that gambling, in its various forms, should be legalized and its operators and devices licensed.

Considering the prevalence of gambling, its quite general public acceptance and the laxity of law enforcement against it, there is some appearance of justification for the idea that herein is a great untapped source of public revenues.

Precedent also seems to support proponents as lotteries were common to colonial days and were frequently operated for such worthy causes as paving streets, building churches and educational buildings, and the like.

In the latter part of the eighteenth century Yale and Harvard colleges were not above conducting lotteries for fund-raising purposes and it was not until 1890 that the mammoth Louisiana lottery was finally banned and transmission of lottery material through the mails prohibited.

It was on account of their baneful influence on improvident persons, more than as a moral issue, that lotteries were frowned upon as contributing to recklessness and unthrift, but prevalence of the "numbers" racket, slot machines and a variety of gambling devices, has largely offset economic gains from outlawing lotteries.

Whether some effort should be made to enforce laws against gambling or whether a majority now favors restoration of legalized lotteries and licensing of gambling devices should prove an interesting topic for discussion in club, civic and church groups.

Parole To Home Counties

RICHLAND COUNTY law enforcement officials are making the reasonable request that this city and county be safeguarded against indiscriminate paroling of reformatory or penitentiary inmates to irresponsible persons in this community.

Instances have been cited by Prosecuting Attorney Lutz in which it appears that the requirement of having a relative or friend agree to help in rehabilitation of a parolee has extended to casual acquaintances who have no regard for the responsibility they pretend to assume.

It seems quite reasonable that Mansfield and Richland county should care for paroled persons whose home had previously been here, but it may also be expected that parolees from other parts of the state be returned to their own counties for supervision and help.

The parole system, which originated in Boston one hundred years ago, is an admirable institution which deserves every possible encouragement, but its methods of administration are not always commendable.

Eating Habits Condemned

A READER wants to know why there is no place in the national defense program for dietitians. What this nation needs, he maintains, is "simple meals of plain foods, properly cooked and as fresh as they are obtainable—more substantial food and balanced meals."

"About the only time the average man or woman can be induced to eat the kind of food they should eat," he laments, "is when they are ill. While they are able to keep going, they not only eat too much but they eat too much processed food.

"The horse and buggy days may be over, but the horse and buggy kind of eating is what we need to return to, if our young men on their soda fountain and quicklunch meals are to be physically able to endure the rigors of military training."

But on the other hand, maybe the rigors of military training themselves can provide the cure. Here's a wonderful chance to provide the right kind of food for the young manhood of America, while their Uncle Sam has them where he can teach them good dietetic habits.

For the young womanhood of America the problem seems more difficult.

One writer says mankind has made more progress in the past 500 years than in all the preceding thousands of years—another contends the world is moving backward at terrific speed . . . all of which creates a very interesting situation.

AGREEMENT ON ONE POINT

Federal Employes Jam Capital

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

IF EVER there was a population-congested area, Washington and its surrounding suburbs so classify at present. The rate at which defense workers are piling into the capital beats all records. The city itself can't begin to absorb them, so they slop over into Maryland and Virginia.

Nobody knows just how much the community's increased numerically in the last few months. It's done it too fast for any accurate estimate.

By defense workers I mean both those employed in the production of material supplies of a defense nature and those with white-collar jobs in the many and rapidly expanding executive setups engaged in promotion of the defense program.

And, besides those the government's hiring, there's the army of applicants for positions on Uncle Sam's payroll.

Furthermore they bring families with 'em—wives and children.

The hotels are jammed, of course, but the overwhelming bulk of the new arrivals aren't seekers for hotel accommodations. They expect to live in the capital or near to it, for quite a while anyway, and want housekeeping apartments, or rooms by the week or month, or boarding houses, or quarters with private families. It's getting to be darned hard for 'em to find places to bunk in.

Naturally, rental rates are skyhooting. There's talk of legislation to control 'em. The difficulty is that, if it's enacted, a lot of householders with spare space available, provided they can get their price for it, simply won't rent it at all, thus aggravating the situation.

Rents Up and Down.

Washington always has been, periodically, a mean place for its tenant population, because, with congress in session, it invariably is crowded, and landlords have made a practice of hiking their rates correspondingly while the lawmakers' sessions lasted. During Capitol Hill's recesses, however, there have been slumps and the tenants have scored for awhile.

There was a fearful crash when 1917's war workers descended on the city. It wasn't relieved at that war's end, either as had been expected. Governmental personnel proved to be permanently added to. Therefore, there wasn't the anticipated shrinkage in tenancy.

As soon as realtors realized this they began to build furiously. By 1932 things were pretty satisfactory. Then in came the New Deal, with another bulge in the number of federal employes, and the town began to be crowded again.

Now, with congress going almost everlastingly and with defense work rampant, conditions rapidly are approaching the extreme limit.

Housing isn't the only problem. At the hour when the government's hirelings are going to work and the hour when they're quitting there isn't enough room on downtown sidewalks. There's discussion of the desirability of staggering the departments' and agencies' going-to-work and quitting hours, to avoid such intolerable crowding.

During rush periods you can't get a taxicab.

There's only a given amount of surface to the District of Columbia and there isn't enough of it to accommodate all its would-be occupants when they're all out of doors simultaneously.

Motor Traffic.

And the autos? Oh, murder!

In 1917, when we got into the last World war, the District had 15,000 flivvers. Today it has 170,000. And that doesn't count the swarm that pours in from the outskirts. There must be at least as many of 'em as the District's own 170,000.

Health and Diet

"I Should Have Been Careful"

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I SHOULD have known better." The words ring like a Greek chorus as the tag line of every accident. A nice old lady looks out the window and sees that it is sleeting or snowing, and does not put on her rubbers nor demand that the steps be salted, but jauntily steps out to her limousine, falls on the second front step and breaks her hip. The first thing she says is, "I should have known better."

Or to get something from the top shelf of the closet, you stand on a rickety chair and having acquired the desired object you fix your gaze on it, step off the chair, lose your balance, and fall and break your wrist. "I should have known better."

It seems silly for a health columnist to warn that this is the season of broken hips in the elderly—a very serious condition. Everybody knows it. Or to say, "take care of wet or slippery days." Everybody knows that, too. But the "I should have known better" is a monumental warning. Know better and act on it. Take all the precautions you can.

Carelessness Causes Accidents.

I have long preached that most accidents are due to carelessness, not ignorance. The tragedy of the roach powder deaths in Pittsburgh illustrates it. Last year I said in this column that sodium fluoride is a good roach powder because it is almost harmless for man.

Manufacturers wrote me protesting. All sodium fluoride should be labelled "Poison" on the can. Agreed! But naturally one must assume that everybody will realize that if sodium fluoride will kill roaches, enough of it will kill a man. Small amounts are not poisonous, but in Pittsburgh ten pounds were dumped in the flour barrel.

Cases of roach and rat powder poisoning are not due to ignorance but carelessness. "They should have known better."

One of the hazards of modern life during the winter and spring months is carbon monoxide gas pouring from the exhaust of a motor in a closed garage. Everybody knows this. They know it takes very little, but still the accidents occur. They will warm up the motor with the doors closed before going out.

Conservative Drivers Safest.

Safety councils have found that most automobile accidents occur with drivers of the age group between 15 and 30. Their skill is far higher than that of the drivers in the higher age groups. But it is their very skill that leads them into trouble. They take chances. They want to show off. They get impatient at the more conservative drivers in traffic.

The drivers between 30 and 50, in fact up to 60 or over, show a smaller accident record. They have far less skill. But they realize their deficiencies, and take fewer chances. They are less likely to be in a hurry and less likely to get angry. They are wholesomely afraid. So they get by unscathed more often. "They know better" and act on the knowledge.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Committee Becomes Wide Lobby, Keeps In Background But Pays

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The capital of the United States has seen all sorts of lobbies come and go, but few that have had such a mushroom growth and such wide ramifications as the America First Committee.

In recent weeks this organization has not been much publicized—as such. Its sympathizers have taken responsibility for their own statements. But it would be a mistake to assume that the America First Committee is not active.

Few of the senators whom it seeks to influence realize it, but copies of America First correspondence which have come to the attention of some legislators show that in a few short weeks the committee has built up an organization which extends its influence to numerous radio stations, preachers, and anti-war groups, and has its own confidential observers in the capitol.

Leading members of the American First committee are Alice Longworth, Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, Hanford McNider (Coolidge's assistant secretary of war), William R. Castle (Hoover's under secretary of state), Mrs. Bennett Clark, Gen. Hugh Johnson, Irvin S. Cobb, and Gen. Robert E. Wood, who is head of the organization and also of Sears, Roebuck and company. However, they appear willing to remain in the background.

In fact, that is one of the main features of the lobbying methods of the America First committee—it does not reveal all of its far-flung activities to the public.

Thus Lee Williams, a member of the committee's staff, sent out to radio station managers various transcriptions of speeches by Senator Nye, Senator Wheeler, ex-Gov. Alf Landon, and other isolationists. But in sending the records for re-broadcast, Williams cautioned:

"These recordings do not mention the name of the America First committee. They are simple messages from the speakers to the people. The sole function of the committee is to cooperate with these speakers in the distribution of the recordings."

No mention is made as to where the funds are raised to pay for these radio recordings but it is clear that the senators are not paying for them themselves.

Message to Preachers.

THIS same desire to keep the America First committee in the background was apparent in an inner office memorandum of Feb. 3, signed "R. D. S. Jr." (presumably. R. Doublas Stuart, Jr., director of the committee) and sent to members of the staff. It read:

"With reference to the memo written by Mr. Bliss on Jan. 29 regarding subsidizing some of the better anti-war groups, I want you to understand this information is strictly confidential. This information should go no further than this office."

Other correspondence revealed an indirect move to propagandize some of the ministers of the country who might oppose the lend-lease bill. For on Jan. 29 Gen. Wood sent a letter to George W. Robnett, secretary of the Church League of America, 53 Jackson boulevard, Chicago, which said:

"Your letter of Jan. 28 has just been received. I am delighted that you have the same view of Bill No. 1776 that our America First committee has, and I think . . . the idea that the statement enclosed should be placed in the hands of every minister is a sound one. Enclosed herewith is my personal check as a small contribution toward this work."

On the same day, Gen. Wood also sent an office memo to R. Douglas Stuart, Jr., in which he said:

"Dear Bobby: I am enclosing a letter addressed to me by the Church League of America. I wish you would get in touch with this Mr. Robnett right away. I think we ought to urge them to get this statement out to their ministers as quickly as possible, even if we have to help them."

Three days later, on Feb. 1, Mr. Stuart, whose father is an executive of the Quaker Oats company, wrote as follows to Mr. Robnett:

"I am pleased to enclose a check for $150 to be used toward completing your mailing to the ministers throughout the United States. This mailing is to be the one calling attention to the dangers involved in HR 1776. I will be very interested in hearing from you as to how this mailing progresses, with further details of exact cost of your operation. Speed is essential . . ."

Landon's Speeches.

THE America First committee also has maintained close contacts with various national figures who might aid in its propaganda drive. On Feb. 4, Lee Williams addressed a letter to ex-Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas in which he said:

"Here are the details of the request I made over the telephone this morning. Will you arrange to go to the radio station in Topeka and make for us recordings of two speeches, the first timed for 13½ minutes, and the record for four minutes . . . Ship them to Mr. Charles Gains, WBS, 711 Fifth avenue, New York. All charges should be billed to the America First committee.

"For these recordings, we will make a master record and 700 pressings which will be distributed to 600 radio stations throughout the United States . . . The records of these talks contain no announcement or any other reference to the America First committee. We merely assure all costs and arrange for proper distribution . . .

"The only suggestion I make is that you place all possible emphasis on the importance of your listeners expressing their opposition to the war bill in writing, and tell them to address both senators and their representatives in the house. A flood of mail demanding defeat of the bill will definitely turn the tide during the next three weeks . . ."

Senator Softening?

THE America First committee also has maintained a confidential observer in Washington which has written some rather interesting memos regarding the views of various senators. In one memo marked "Confidential (from Observer, Washington)" and signed "P. T. O." it is reported:

"Senator George, previously deemed impartial, seems to have shifted his stand. This shift appeared yesterday after Lord Halifax paid him a surprise visit to talk about how fast action may be expected from the senate on the bill. Senator George, after the conference with Halifax, announced that speed on the bill would continue and that the committee would sit 'longer hours' next week . . . All in all, it is considered that George is being 'softened up' by the administration, probably by his old friend Secretary Hull.

"Incidentally, the visit of Halifax to the Hill reveals an important change in the attitude of press and public. A year ago any such action by a foreign ambassador, including the ambassador of Great Britain, would have elicited strong expressions of resentment. No such expressions are visible in today's press."

Another confidential memo by the America First Observer and dated Jan. 30 reported "sharp disagreement between Senator Taft on the one side and ex-President Hoover and Senator McNary on the other. McNary and Hoover prefer that the fight be carried on by means of a series of amendments, rather than by one amendment as Senator Taft has proposed. McNary and Hoover say that for technical parliamentary reasons a number of amendments would be a better method."

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—CCC is having a strange birthday—strange because it occurs "anytime between March 31 and April 17." This quoted phrase was included in the notice that went out to all camps that the Civilian Conservation Corps may do its local and national celebrating of its eighth birthday in that period. The reason is that congress passed the CCC bill eight years ago on March 31, but it was April 17 before the first camp was established.

Speaking of the CCC reminds me of an interesting little item tucked away in the annual report of James J. McEntee, director. It is one of those things that is good to remember whenever we get to thinking smugly what a darned smart country this is. The report pointed with pride (and shouldn't it?) to the fact that 9,000 boys had come into the camps during the last year who couldn't read or write but when they left it, could do both. What goes on in this country of "compulsory education" when 9,000 lads can join any organization without the ability to sign names.

Case of Crowding.

A GROUP of newspaper men trooped into a 30-foot long room the other morning for an announced interview with Chester F. Palmer of defense housing. They assembled around the desk of a young woman secretary. At the far end of the room was another desk at which sat a man, busy over papers. The secretary was in something of a dither. The press conference had, she said, been called off. She couldn't understand why the press had not been notified.

The press, however, was a little insistent. Since everyone was present, couldn't Mr. Palmer see them? The secretary didn't know. Wait a minute, she would find out. She picked up the telephone, punched a buzzer and chatted animatedly for a minute or so with someone at the other end of the line. She asked the gentlemen of the press to wait just a minute. The man at the other end of the room got up and approached the gathering. "Gentlemen," he said, "I am Mr. Palmer. I'm sorry but the conference will have to be delayed until tomorrow."

One of the boys who knew the secretary was kidding her later about the 30-foot telephone call. She said: "What do you expect me to do, yell at the boss?" Nobody has thought of an answer to that yet. Besides it is only one of the thousand and one things that have occurred here because the rapidly expanding defense program is outgrowing Uncle Sam's britches. Why, down at the army and navy, there are offices in shanties built on the roofs. The employes laughingly call them penthouses — which won't help this summer when the wind goes dead and the sun beats a rat-tatninety-two on the house-tops.

All-American Girl.

HOW many of you saw that Valentine poster advertising the air corps, which showed a blond beauty with arm upraised against a heart and an air corps eagle in flight? The insignia read: "Be a Flying Cadet in the Army." According to report here, the blond beauty is Betty Lou Thompson, Columbus, O., co-ed on the Ohio State university campus. Betty, so the story goes, is pretty much an all-American girl. One of her great-grandfathers was a Union spy in the Civil war and it fell to the lot of another great-grandfather, who was governor of the Confederate Libby prison, at Richmond, Va., to order the execution of Great-Grandpa Thompson.

A Farmer's Diary

Making Souse

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ON A WINTER afternoon, I happened into the home of a Pennsylvania Dutch family. The wood fire in the livingroom stove burned merrily. My face smarted and burned as the rising heat came up against me. The cuffs of my trousers were filled with snow, and when I shook it out, the moist lumps melted and left a clear pool of water on the broad metal sheet beneath the stove. I was happy for the pleasant warmth and the delightful atmosphere of home.

From the kitchen came the savory smell of boiling pork, and I was sure I recognized that familiar odor, so typically farmerish and Dutch—the scent of boiling pigs' feet. I asked my hostess if I could go into the kitchen.

"Why, sure!" she said. "but I haven't cleaned it up since yesterday." I followed my nose.

A big wood range, of course, and a box by the chimney piled high with split sticks of oak and hickory. The range was in splendid humor, and a whistling column of steam shot forth from the parted lips of the spout of the heavy walled oldtime teakettle. A deep iron pot was over an open hole, and from under its lid came the deep blurbing boiling sound of a voluminous mass of meat.

"You're making souse," I said. "I thought so."

"And how did you know?" she wondered.

"That's very simple. When I was a small boy my mother used to boil pigs feet in the very same kind of a pot, and the smell hasn't changed any, from that time. She would boil and boil until the gristle, muscles and warmed skin would fall away from the bones. She poured it from the iron pot into a large dishpan, and when she had each knuckle picked clean, she would let us boys lick the bones. They seemed to satisfy a craving at that time that no other food could supply. We saved the greasy things about the kitchen for several days, and grieved when they were thrown at last to the dogs.

"When the gelatinous mass was separated, it would be eased into a Dutch oven and set on the back porch to cool. The next morning it would be cut into pieces—about two inches square and a half inch thick—and eaten with fried mush and country sausage. It made rugged fare for growing country boys. I like it yet."

SNIPERS DEFY JAPAN'S RULE OF SHANGHAI

Controlled Area Beset By Gunmen; Assailants Evade Arrest.

SHANGHAI —(U.P.)— Borrowing methods from China's famous guerilla warriors, snipers in Shanghai for two months have waged an undercover campaign against Japanese gendarmes, officials and their agents.

Since Sept. 29, when a series of attacks began with the fatal shooting of a Japanese naval commander and a Japanese gendarme, the assassins attacked at least 11 men, killing most of them. The most prominent victim was Shanghai's mayor, Fu Siao-en, who was slashed to death while asleep.

Eleven attacks occurred in the Japanese-controlled Hongkew section, while two others took place in areas also under Japanese jurisdiction.

Invariably, the Japanese routine after an attack was to throw a cordon of armed gendarmes around the area in which the shooting occurred, restraining all traffic to and from the site and forcing even foreigners to undergo considerable inconvenience. Oftimes, the Chinese within the area had been restricted from communication with the outside area for several hours.

Blockade Causes Suffering.

On one occasion, when the Japanese reprisal was especially severe, at least two Chinese residents of the lane on the Yuyuan road died from lack of water during a week-long blockade.

After the attack at noon on Nov. 16, when a Japanese officer was shot and critically wounded, Japanese gendarmes threw the usual cordon around the Hongkew sector where the assault had occurred. The night was cold. At about 9 p. m. 200 Chinese who were isolated within the zone attempted to rush past the Japanese sentry at one spot. In the confusion, one Chinese was killed and four wounded. Medical help could not be sent to the victims immediately.

The Chinese endure other hardships and privations as a result of the cordons. At different times, both the municipal council fire engines and ambulances were turned back by the Japanese guards at various bridges over Soochow creek.

Japanese quarters in Shanghai assert that the shootings were the work of the Chinese new Fourth Route Army guerillas who had shifted into the city in recent weeks. But there was no proof of this charge.

Assailants Always Escape.

Despite intensified Japanese searches following each attack, no assailant ever was caught. Japanese officials and Japanese-controlled organs blame the guerills to the Chungking government.

The Tairiku Shimpo, Japanese army organ, said the blame for the shootings must rest with International Settlement and French Concession authorities since they "have not adopted stronger measures of suppression of anti-Japanese terrorism."

Tairiku said the "International Settlement and French Concession authorities may try to evade responsibility for the shootings in Hongkew on grounds their policing right has not been fully restored in Hongkew, which is still under Japanese control."

The newspaper added that since these areas adjacent to the Japanese-controlled section are beyond Japanese control and free communications between these areas permitted terrorism by Chungking agents, these shootings could not be terminated by guarding Hongkew alone.

Power May Be Widened.

It is believed in some quarters that the Japanese eventually might use this argument as an excuse for expanding their control to the International Settlement or for seizing it. Meanwhile, some quarters declared that shootings were the handiwork of the Japanese themselves —Japanese left-wing elements.

It was pointed out in support of this argument that despite the military cordons surrounding each slaying site and the fine-toothed combing of each Chinese found nearby, none of the slayers was found.

With the increase of shootings, Japanese military forces are becoming more wary and officers have told their men always to appear in the streets at least in pairs and carry sirens which could be sounded in the event they were attacked.

CHAPTER XVIII

Nancy heard Barclay say, "I'm glad the night's still young, for I want to drive over to Dagger Wash before I turn in. I must send a wire to my associate in Montana. Anybody want to go along in my car?"

"I'll ride with you, Barclay." Tony spoke as if he were doing the prospective ranch buyer a favor.

"Okay. Be ready in a few minutes."

As Barclay left the bunkhouse, Nancy stepped quickly over to Bing and Ted, who had just come from the Lodge. "Did you boys and Cinders get the flivver fixed today?"

"Not quite, Miss Bobbie," Bing answered. "Only a minute ago I saw Cinders tinkering with that relic by lantern light. Maybe he has—"

Gabby was at the girl's side. 'How about goin' to the big house and startin' a dance, Bobbie?"

"I'm with you there," Shorty chimed in, and Bronc added a laconic, "Uh-huh."

"By golly, if we start a hop maybe I'll get to waltz Miss Farnsworth 'round," Slim added enthusiastically.

"Thank you, boys," returned Nancy a bit breathlessly. "But I must hit the hay. Good night."

She flew across the yard to the cookhouse, driven by urgent need for haste.

Smoothie Dick's Barclay's auto had passed through Jimtown and was chugging steadily on toward Dagger Wash when there came from behind the two men in the front seat the unmistakable sound of a violent, long-repressed sneeze.

Tony looked around at the dark rear seat. "Who's there?"

Smoothie's reaction was instantaneous yet decidedly different. He clipped tersely, "Hold everything! Don't shoot!" Bringing the car to a skidding halt, he raised his hands from the wheel, holding them shoulder-high and looking straight ahead.

Tony's voice dropped to scared whisper. "You figure it's a stick-up, eh, Barclay? . . . Steady, Mister Bandit, I'm not resisting," Tony went on, his teeth beginning to chatter. . . . "Barclay, I don't see anybody, or feel a gun."

Without moving either his hands or his head, Smoothie Dick said, "Let's get it over with, mug or dick, whichever you are."

Still no answer from the back of the car. No movement. So at length Barclay ordered his companion of the shaking knees and chattering teeth, "Switch on the dome light, Tony."

This done, Smoothie ventured to turn his head. A blanket hid something on the floor of the car. Jerking this covering aside he ejaculated, "It's a dame!"

"Glug!" choked Tony. Then, "Holy smoke! It's the new hired girl, Roberta. . . . Hey, you! Hey, you!" with sudden rage because neither the ranch buyer nor the girl could have helped but see how badly scared had been Anthony Thomas Perriwell. "What you playing? Trying to run away, I suppose."

In silence Nancy lifted herself and slid back on the seat. Smoothie Dick got out, stretched and lighted a cigarette. "You gave us quite a scare, Bobbie," rolling the name on his tongue. "I'd have been gl—delighted to take you to town if I'd known you wanted to go."

"And I wouldn't have let you take her," snapped Tony. "This confounded girl's a — well, it's damned annoying. Damned embarrassing, too, since of course she's heard everything we've said."

"Embarrassing for her then, I might say," Barclay remarked. "Your stories, Tony, weren't exactly of the parlor variety."

"Hell! They wouldn't shock the likes of this skirt. For two cents I'd make her walk home. Look here you—you girl, you can't sneak out like this! Run away from the T Slash and your job! You got to go back."

"Oh, hush!" said Nancy shortly. "I'll—I'll walk the rest of the way to Dagger Wash."

"Okay," growled Tony. "Come on, get out," stepping from the car and turning down the seat. "Barclay, come over to one side. I want to speak to you."

The prospective ranch buyer hesitated before he stepped aside with Tony, who said in an undertone, "She don't realize it's still over 20 miles to Dagger Wash. We'll let her shuffle along in the dust and pick her up as we come back. Teach her a good lesson. She was trying to quit the T Slash."

However before Smoothie Dick could frame a reply, the deep-throated voice of an automobile engine, suddenly accelerated, sent him bounding toward his car. Tony, gasping an oath, was at his side. But the spinning hind wheels showered them with gravel and dust as Nancy sat behind the steering wheel of the swiftly moving machine.

Smoothie Dick and Tony stopped. They stood on the lonely road, glaring at each other. Smoothis dropped his cigarette and stamped on it. Tony irritably kicked the gravel of the highway.

"I'll get her for this, the brazen little crook!"

"Crook?" Barclay rolled the eye with a cast in it in the direction of Tony.

"Uh, well, that is—" stammered Tony, remembering that he didn't particularly care to have any one else on the T Slash know that Roberta Rowland was a crook. "She's stolen your car, Barclay!"

"Good machine, too. Do we shuffle along in the dust as you were just now so pleasantly contemplating having the skirt do? Or do we sit in the dust and wait for a car to pass and thumb a ride?"

"You're a cool customer," Tony retorted. "Mighty likely you'll never see that car again. The girl will make a getaway, too," cursing to relieve his pent-up feelings. "Chances of a car coming along tonight are slimmer than slim. And I hate walking, Barclay."

"No more than me, Tony. But let's start."

The red tail-light as it winked over a distant hill mocked them as they trudged somberly along the long road to Dagger Wash. Tony walked with a sullen, smouldering fury, but presently Smoothie Dick chuckled, then laughed aloud.

Tony glowered. "What's funny, ranch buyer? I've been kind of scared this incident might make you up and leave the T Slash without looking at the rest of the cattle or making us an offer. But if you can see something funny—"

"You couldn't bribe me to leave the T Slash just yet, Tony. Not until—well, until after—man! Is this going to be good and are you going to get the shock of your life, guy!"

"Me?"

"You particularly. . . . Wonder how soon it'll break?"

"What?"

"Never mind, Tony. Only remember I've warned you."

"Sa-ay, what can you know about what's what on the T Slash? You only got here today. Tony Perriwell isn't so dumb either. He could tell you things that'd stagger you."

"Such as——?"

"I'll give you the answer you gave me: 'Never mind' . . . Damn that sharp rock. Cut my boot . . . Yippee! Car coming. Traveling toward Dagger Wash, too!"

"We won't let it pass us, either," chuckled Barclay.

They stood in the middle of the road, facing the oncoming auto. As it drew nearer they heard the chug-chug of its engine, the squeak of its ungreased joints and its loose fenders. Smoothie Dick waved his cowboy hat, Tony waved both arms and shouted. The car's dim lights picked them out and the driver, alone in the machine, slapped on the brake.

Tony whooped joyfully. "Cinders Malloy, the new hired hand! I'm so damn glad to see you, I'd give you a drink if I had a bottle. Take us to town."

Take you to town?" repeated Cinders. "Where's Barclay's machine?"

But already Tony was seating himself beside Cinders while Barclay took the rear seat, gracefully. He said, "A bobbed-haired bandit snatched my machine and took it on the lam."

Cinders turned his shoulders and his head. "You can't mean that, Mr. Barclay. Who—— ?"

"Get going, fellow," snapped Tony. "Yes, Barclay means Miss Roberta Rowland. 'Bobbie' to the ranch boys—I noticed you too found something attractive about that cheeky little hash-slinger. Well, she'd stowed herself away in Barclay's car. We discovered her, stepped out to discuss what to do, and she left us afoot. Confound her brazen impudence!"

Cinders' hands had tightened on the steering wheel. But as Tony concluded, he relaxed and even grinned. In spite of suspicious circumstances, Cinders still thought a very great deal of Bobbie.

"Step on it! Step on it!" Tony ordered, and as the rickety machine chugged along the road at its best pace, which was far from swift, he added angrily, "What are you doing with the ranch flivver, fellow?"

Cinders' resentment against the "arrogant, swell-headed Jackanapes," flamed anew, though he answered coolly, "I had to make a trip to Dagger Wash."

"Is that so? Did you ask Sol if you could use the car?"

"Lanky Lem said he reckoned 'twould be all right."

"So? Lanky's taking quite a lot of authority to himself. Why the devil you needing to go to Dagger Wash?"

Cinders' quiet voice sounded dangerous. "Tony, even a hired hand has a right to mind his own business. The subject's closed. You ought to be glad I came along and picked up a couple of duffers a girl had set afoot."

GLEE CLUB PRESENTS POPULAR CONCERT

Margaret B. Hall, Thelma Reed, Sigurd Jorgensen Assist B. And P. W. Group With Program At Hotel.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

ONE of the largest audiences ever to attend a musical tea given by the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's glee club jammed the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel and overflowed into the balcony yesterday afternoon. Assisting the club in the presentation of a concert of favorite music were Margaret B. Hall and Thelma Reed, duo pianist, Sigurd Jorgensen, violinist, and Minnie Marks Cahall, accompanist.

Miss Myrtle Booth directed the glee club with the assistance of Miss Estella Arras. Following the customary opening with the club singing the theme song arrangement of "Londonderry Air" by Wilson, the first group was presented.

Included were "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell, "My Lover Is a Fisherman" by Strickland, "The Lass With the Delicate Air" by Arne-Downing and "I Am An American" arranged by Stickles.

Next Mrs. Hall and Miss Reed played "Rondo" from the "Sonata in D" by Mozart, "Espana" by Chabrier and "Rhapsody in Blue" for the encore selection they gave "Blue Danube Arabesque." Mrs. Hall and Miss Reed, both pianists of some note in this vicinity, gave an unexcelled performance yesterday displaying a complete synchronization which is rarely duplicated even by professional piano teams.

Mr. Jorgensen then played "Ballade et Polonaise" by Vieuxtemps and "Nocturno from Opus No. 9" by Chopin-Sarasate. He also played an encore. Mr. Jorgensen's execution of the two classical selections allowed for the display of the violinist's talent and technical ability.

In conclusion the club sang "When Children Pray" by Fenner, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" by Jerome Kern, "Thine Alone" by Victor Herbert and "A Song of Joy" in addition to several encore numbers.

For a non-professional group the glee club gave one of the most pleasing performances ever heard in this community. The tonal blending, and the vocal effects achieved were of ear-tantalizing beauty. Outstanding perhaps, although it is difficult to choose a best number from the program, was the rendition of "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

Arrangements for the affair were in charge of Miss Marie Kalbfleisch, hotel accommodations; Margaret Wheeler, Falsom B. Teeter and Beatrice Brewer, tickets; Mildred Perry and Thelma Bogan, tickets at the door; Dorothy Clauss, Florence Cairns, Aria Cairns and Sue Kozik, ushers; Mae Douglass, Carrie Willett, Fannie Ray and Lenna Mateer poured tea and Mrs. Rensch was in charge of table decorations.

The two tables were set in a wing formation, and centered with red and white gladiolii in low white bowls. These were flanked by four lighted white tapers set in blue cellophane covered holders.

Informally Speaking...

Feb. 24, 1941.

Lucy, dear:

WELL, it looks as though the month of presidents' birthdays and holidays is just about over, and with it goes St. Valentine day and all its fancy trimmings and airs of romance, so I guess we'll soon have to settle down to the lion and lamb of March—and wait to see which one comes in first in that annual race.

* * * * *

Marianne

But getting from the weather and the seasons to news of the day, I might say that some of it is about our active college students. . . . At the close of the first semester's work at Denison university, Robert W. Tawse was listed on the freshman honor roll, having maintained a better than average grade record throughout the 18-week period just past. . . . A member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity at the school, Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Tawse.

* * * * *

And while we're speaking of high scholastic marks, I mustn't forget to tell you, Lucy, that James R. McConnell was named among 152 students included on the Washington and Lee university dean's list for the first semester of this year. . . . Of the group 65 made honor roll grades with an average of 90 or higher, and 18 received all A grades. . . . To be eligible for the dean's list a student at the university must receive a B average or better. . . . This is Jim's senior year at the university, and he's an active member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. . . . His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul McConnell.

* * * * *

Fact is, Lucy, we just can't seem to get away from talk about honor rolls and good grades today. . . . Wayne Barr, who's a sophomore from Ashland at Otterbein college this year, led the first semester honor roll there with a point average of 3.888 out of a possible 4.000. There were 89 students at the school on this list for the first semester—an increase of 21 over a year ago, so it's no wonder we all feel so proud of Wayne for heading them all.

* * * * *

SPEAKING still further of honor rolls, Janet Baughman has been named to that list at Bowling Green college for her grades during the first semester of her freshman year. . . . And Alden Smith has been initiated into Phi Gamma Delta fraternity at Ohio Wesleyan university, where he is a junior, having enrolled there in September. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight P. Smith, you know.

* * * * *

You can chalk up another honor for Maxwell Miller at Baldwin-Wallace college in Berea, as he has been elected freshman member of the May Day committee there. . . . This committee assumes full responsibility for the plans for the annual May Day ceremonies on the campus in the spring. . . . But that's not the only thing that will take up Maxwell's time, because you see, he's president of the college Bible class, publicity director of the B-W Wesley Foundation (a church discussion group), secretary-treasurer of the Friars club (an organization for religious majors) and a member of the Y. M. C. A. recreation committee. . . . Oh yes, and he's also president of the pledge class of Alpha Sigma Phi, national social fraternity. . . . Maxwell, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller, was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school last June and now is enrolled as a pre-ministerial student at the college.

* * * * *

MRS. CATHERINE M. NEWCOMER and her daughters, Mary and Rita, have left for Florida. . . . They're driving down and plan to be gone for about a month . . . Raymond Wall of New York City was a week-end guest at the home of Virginia Stevick and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Stevick. . . . And I guess that about winds up the news for today, Lucy, so let me hear from you soon.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Bette Penhorwood Selects Wedding Date; Told At Tea

TWENTY-ONE friends of Miss Bette Penhorwood learned of her approaching marriage to Richard R. Stander during a tea which her mother, Mrs. W. B. Ford, gave from 4 until 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family home, 513 Chevy Chase road.

A large match folder, with the names of the couple on the cover, and the date, March 8, inside, centered the tea table in a mound of white sweetpeas and acacia. Mrs. Carl H. Stander, mother of the prospective bridegroom, poured. The wedding will be solemnized by Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ford.

Miss Penhorwood was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and attended Stephen college and Carnegie Institute of Technology. She is employed as a medical secretary in the X-ray department at Mansfield General hospital.

Mr. Stander, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Stander, 475 Marion avenue, also was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. Since his graduation from Ohio State university, he has been associated with his father in the Mansfield Asphalt and Paving company. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Out-of-town guests at the tea included: Mrs. Harry Davis and Mrs. Harry Williams of Greenville, Mrs. Herman Hess and Miss Peggy Eller of Galion and Mrs. Edward Reaser of Ashland.

Quiet Ceremony Read At Parsonage Feb. 15

On Feb. 1, at 2:30 p. m., at the parsonage of the Shenandoah church, Rev. Turner Holt read the service which united in marriage Miss Maxine Ruth Maxwell, daughter of Mrs. Roy Fisher, 634 McPherson street, and Donald H. Milligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Milligan, Bellville.

The bride, who attended Madison high school, was attended by Mrs. William Schultz, her aunt, and Mrs. Nicholas Spertzel, her cousin, both of Mansfield. The couple will make their home with the bridegroom's family. Mr. Milligan is engaged in farming.

WANT SPOUTS

Women have shown a definite preference for squatty, wide-mouthed bottles and other glass containers, according to a recent survey on modern packaging conducted by the magazine "Sales Management." The nationwide survey also disclosed that housewives approve of spouts on all packages, particularly on products like rice and wheat cereals, tapioca and bird seed.

Elect Officers During Session of Class

Mrs. Herbert Longshore was elected president of the Booster class of the First Brethren church Saturday evening during a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miles on Miller street. Mrs. H. H. Kell was named secretary, and Mr. Miles, treasurer.

There were 12 members and two guests, the Misses Martha Longshore and Treva Miles, present. Luncheon was served at the close of a social hour. Mr. and Mrs. Longshore will have the meeting of March 29 at their home, 261 West Fifth street.

PATRIOTIC GROUPS HAVE DINNER MEET

Department Commander, Head of Ashland Tent Present For Session Held At North Lake Park Sunday.

MORE than 50 members and guests of the Federated Patriotic societies met at North Lake park Sunday evening for a covered-dish dinner, business meeting and program. The tables at which dinner was served were arranged in a T-shape, and a miniature flower garden formed the centerpiece. Lighted blue tapers in crystal holders and miniature flags completed the decorations.

Honored guests included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ridenour, Crestline, and Mr. and Mrs. Olin Boyd, Ashland. Mr. Ridenour is department commander of Ohio, and Mr. Boyd is president of Tent No. 118 of Ashland, Sons of Union Veterans.

Mrs. Mary Somers, president, was in charge of the meeting, and the group singing of patriotic songs followed with Leo Eccles as accompanist. Talks were given by Commander Ridenour, Mrs. Ridenour, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, Carl Sattler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Constance, Mrs. Sarah Case, president of the Women's Relief corps; Mrs. William Trissler, president of the Sarah Pfeifer auxiliary No. 4, and the president.

Mrs. Sattler, program chairman, then took charge and presented E. J. Cosgrove, R. D. Stevens, Roger Stevens and Mr. Eccles, who played several patriotic selections. "Marching Through Georgia" and "We're Tenting Tonight" were sung by the group and dedicated to Commander Ridenour.

Mr. Sattler, past commander of the Sons of Union Veterans, spoke on Lincoln after which Mrs. Faye Stoffer, patriotic instructor of the W. R. C., gave a paper on George Washington, and Miss Mary Beilstein paid tribute to General Robert E. Lee. She also read a tribute to Lincoln, Washington and Theodore Roosevelt. Sattler then presented Mrs. Somers with a gift on behalf of the organization.

Alpha Pi Sigma Has Holiday Dance Saturday

One of the largest dances of the season was that given by Alpha Pi Sigma sorority Saturday night and attended by 144 couples at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Ray Jacquet and his orchestra furnished the music. The ballroom was attractively decorated with red, white and blue crepe paper streamers and balloons in the same shades.

Miss Marie Kalbfleisch was general chairman. She was assisted by Miss Garnet Karl, Miss Isabel Kass, Mrs. Harvey Hauserman, Mrs. Harvey Heldebrand, Miss Miriam Johnson, and Mrs. Clarence Skinner. The semi-formal affair, known as the "Washington Swing," was for members and guests.
